

AREA TRAGEDIES: Plane Crash, Cliff Plunge

By WALTER S. CLARK

Pilot Dies, Man Descends Mountain For Help

HIGHLAND MILLS

Although suffering excruciating pain from critical injuries sustained in the crash of a rented plane that took the life of a New Paltz man on Thursday, Eric Krauss, 23, of Rocking Horse Ranch, Highland, groped his way through the rugged terrain of Schunnemunk Mountain for 15 hours to get help.

Krauss was given first aid and then rushed by ambulance to Cornwall Hospital suffering a broken ankle, fractured spleen and a fractured skull, all received in the crash. His condition is listed as critical.

Killed in the crash of the Piper 140 plane, was Raymond Andro Jr., of 31 Church Street, New Paltz, whose father is manager of the Rocking Horse Ranch. An autopsy at the hospital disclosed Andro died of a skull fracture.

Rented in Wallkill

The plane was rented at Kobelt Airport in Wallkill on Wednesday afternoon for a flight to Linden, N. J. Krauss was a passenger in the ill-fated aircraft. A spokesman at Kobelt's said the two men were due to land at the airport Thursday morning.

Investigators said the plane left the New Jersey airport Thursday at 6 a. m. It reportedly crashed on fog-shrouded rocky Schunnemunk Mountain about 7, an hour after take-off.

Andro apparently was killed instantly. Krauss managed to free himself from the wreckage of the aircraft. He was in severe shock and was stunned by the impact of the crash.

Through the day he remained on the mountainside, nursing his injuries as the broken bones continued to intensify the pain and suffering.

The badly injured man set off on his journey down the mountain about 6 p. m. Thursday, 11 hours after the crash, when it became apparent that no help was on the way to rescue him.

No Roads in Area

Hampered by the multiple injuries, Krauss continued his struggle down the mountain, wending his way by pulling himself along the ground most of the time, hoping that he would soon come upon someone who would help him. Authorities said there were no roads or paths in the area that might have made it easier for the injured man.

It was about 10:30 a. m. Friday when encouragement came. As Krauss stumbled out of the woods, he was spotted by Robert Scott of Newburgh, an employee of the Atlantic Coast Aggregate Corp. on Route 32 in this community.

Police Chief William Bailey and emergency units heard Krauss' story then they made their way up the hazardous mountain where they found the wreckage and the body of Andro.

An independent investigation is under way by the Federal Aeronautics Administration officials.

Find Student's Body After Possible Fall

GARDINER

State and county authorities today pursued an extensive investigation into the death of a 20-year-old college student, whose broken body was discovered at the foot of a 175 foot cliff on the Lake Mohonk property in this township by three other students.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, who made preliminary investigation Friday afternoon with State Police officials from Troop F headquarters in Middletown and the Kingston zone headquarters, said he had not rendered a verdict pending further probing by investigators.

Victim of the tragedy was tentatively identified as Howard William Davis of 47 School Road, Chatam, N. J., a student at State College of Westchester, Pennsylvania. The body was removed to the Ulster County morgue at Kingston Hospital for an autopsy by Dr. Herbert Derman, coroner's physician.

"As of now," Coroner Chipp said this morning, "it is believed that the youth fell from the cliff, but that is not definite and the investigation has not been concluded. If he fell from the top of the cliff he plunged some 175 feet."

Cause Not Disclosed

The coroner emphasized that State Police and he are pressing the investigation. The cause of death was not disclosed pending final determination of authorities.

Shortly after 3 p. m. yesterday, three students were walking along the rocks at the foot of a cliff about 300 feet north of Route 44-45 in this township, when they came upon the body later identified as Davis. The students were identified by Chipp as Michael Chlystum, 19; Michael Weinstock, also 19, of Douglaston, and Linda Ceriello, 19, of Glen Cove, L. I. Chlystum and Weinstock are students at Southampton College, and Miss Ceriello is a student at New Paltz State College.

Notified Authorities

The students notified authorities and the coroner went to the scene with Capt. John Dwyer of Troop F, Middletown, Sgt. D. B. Baker and BCI Investigators John Salter and Joseph Ventriglia. Troopers said it appeared that the youth may have fallen through trees as branches were snapped off a 30 foot tree near the spot where the body was found.

Chipp said Davis had been climbing the mountainous cliff alone. The area reportedly is used by beginners in the early stages of cliff climbing.

Davis is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was born Dec. 18, 1948. His parents in Chatam, N. J., were notified and they were expected in Kingston today to identify the body of their son at the county morgue.

Cong's Grim Warning: Severe Blows to Come

SAIGON (UPI) —Guerrillas, guerrilla ground thrust against completing the fourth week of their winter-spring offensive shelled 30 allied military camps today and fought U.S. and South Vietnamese on two fronts outside Saigon. The Viet Cong warned of more "severe blows" to come.

"If the U.S. wants to continue and intensify its war of aggression, the Vietnamese will continue to fight and we shall give them severe blows at any place with an appropriate scale and method," said Phung Van Cung, the Viet Cong representative in Hanoi, in a broadcast. Cung accused the United States of "mass slaughters" in Vietnam. North Vietnam said U.S. planes Thursday had bombed its territory. U.S. headquarters in Saigon denied the alleged raids just above the border Demilitarized Zone.

Military spokesmen reported a total of 98 guerrillas slain on infiltration corridors to Saigon. Despite American intelligence reports of 50-50 chances of a guerrilla ground thrust against Saigon this weekend, U.S. headquarters reported no "significant" Communist ground drives overnight in the capital's defense perimeter.

Many of the overnight rocket and mortar bafrages, however, were concentrated against allied soldiers defending the city and U.S. air bases supporting them. Overall losses in the attacks were described as light.

The fighting on approaches to Saigon today centered 47 miles north-northwest of the city and 51 miles northwest of the city in the Allies' Operation Atlas Wedge counteroffensive designed to block a Communist ground attack on the capital.

A South Vietnamese airborne battalion reported killing 40 Communists in four hours of fighting near Tay Ninh City while losing five killed and 20 wounded themselves.

Military spokesmen said the second battle saw U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division soldiers kill 10 guerrillas near An Loc, escaping the skirmish with no losses themselves.

U.S. 9th Infantry Division soldiers guarding approaches to Saigon from the south, meantime, clashed Friday with a Communist unit on the move 48 miles southwest of the capital. They reported killing 48 guerrillas against one GI killed and nine wounded.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon said Communist ground fire had shot down an American troop-carrying helicopter 60 miles northwest of Saigon Friday, killing five men aboard.

Far to the north in the Central Highlands, guerrilla commandos early today invaded the camp of U.S. Army Engineers outside Kontum City and hurled explosives charges that did "heavy" damage to their construction equipment, military spokesmen said.

The Americans, losing two killed and two wounded, threw out the Communist platoon, which left behind two men killed.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams' U.S. command sent seven waves of B52 bombers against Communist buildups threatening Saigon and strategic allied outposts in the Central Highlands and on the northern coast.

Many of the overnight shellings focused against U.S. installations involved in the defense of Saigon. At Vung Tau, headquarters for an aerial reconnaissance outfit keeping tabs on the Reds around Saigon, 25th Infantry Division near Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of the capital.

"Overall damage and casualties were reported light," American headquarters said. Of the B52 strikes against infiltration corridors to the capital, two centered 41 to 44 miles north of Saigon while a third rocked the countryside 25 miles east of the city, near Division headquarters at Dong Tam, 42 miles southwest of a Thai unit in human waves six days ago.

Freeman Plans Viet Series

KINGSTON

A first-hand glimpse of the fighting in Vietnam will be offered to readers in a special series of articles written especially for The Kingston Daily Freeman beginning in the Monday, March 24, edition.

Jerome Hill, a young free-lance reporter writes on his close association with movements of the First Air Cavalry Division in this five-part series.

Hill, who served two years in the Army during peacetime, frankly confesses a bias against war—war in general and the Vietnam War in particular.

He offers as his principal credentials for this series the fact that he was for a short time in a place where most people haven't been.

Two Farm Workers Being Held After Cab Driver Is Robbed

MILTON

Two area farm workers were in custody today facing charges of second degree robbery as the result of the alertness of two Highland state troopers, who investigated a complaint that an Orange County taxicab driver had been beaten and about $60 was taken from him.

Sergeant Stanley Kowalik said Robert Watson, 47, of 2 Courtney Street, Newburgh, driving a taxicab owned by Sandy's

Cab Service of that city, picked up two Negroes this morning in the Orange County community, and drove them here.

As the vehicle was traveling along Milton Turnpike at about 3 a. m. the two men allegedly grabbed Watson and proceeded to attack him with their fists. The taxi driver tried to fight off the assailants but they overpowered him.

Watson was forced from the vehicle, which the accused robbers drove some distance into a nearby orchard. They fled on foot.

The Newburgh man retrieved the taxicab and drove to a telephone. He called Highland state police and reported the robbery.

Troopers J. E. Hornbeck and B. D. Mitchell on night patrol, received a radio call from headquarters alerting them of the incident. As the troopers were heading here to pick up the victim of the assault-robbery, the two alert troopers spotted two men walking along the highway. They stopped and questioned them.

The accused men were later identified as Jimmy Strauther, 19, and Roscoe Smith, 27, both of this village. At first they denied any part in the robbery, but after questioning at the state police substation they were charged with the holdup. They were held for arraignment before Town Justice Lewis DiStasi.

Quilty Ends Mayoral Speculation, Will Not Seek GOP Nomination

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Lawrence A. Quilty ended several weeks of speculation today when he told The Freeman that he is "definitely out" as a Republican candidate for the mayoral nomination.

Quilty, in a brief statement, said, "At this juncture of my business career it would be impossible for me to accept the position of mayor."

Three Candidates

With Quilty out, that leaves the Republicans with three announced candidates, John Ray Mayone, former GOP city chairman; James Tyrrell, operations manager of a local radio station and Clifford V. Bunting, an Uptown businessman. Another possible candidate, Kingston Legislator Melvin Mones, ended speculation on his candidacy (for mayor) Tuesday night at a meeting of some 40 committeemen at the Ulster County Courthouse. Mones will seek another term in the legislature.

Mayone greeted the news of Quilty's withdrawal with, "I'm happy to see the field narrowed down. I think I can win the convention."

Mayone said he would spend the weekend rounding up additional support from the Republican Committeemen and looking for a running mate. "I'd love to have Jim Martin on the ticket with me," Mayone told The Freeman. Martin is a former 12th Ward committeeman who served 12 years on the old Board of Supervisors and two years in the Common Council. He has been prominently mentioned as a possible alderman-at-large candidate.

Mayone, like many other Republicans, sees the Conservative party endorsement as vital. "The conservatives can bring in at least 500 votes," he said. "That could easily be the difference."

Topic of Discussion

On the Democratic side, a ticket of Francis R. Koenig for mayor and T. Robert Gallo for alderman-at-large is much the topic of discussion although speculation on that ticket has been limited by the possibility of Mayor Raymond W. Garra-ghan changing his mind and deciding to seek another term. Garraghan is out of town this weekend, reportedly in Boston, on a brief vacation.

The Republicans will meet in convention on Monday night at 6 p. m. On Wednesday, the Democrats will meet.

Both parties will nominate a full slate of candidates, including 13 aldermen, eight legislators and a city judge. The Republicans have the edge in legislators, 6-2 but this is offset by Democrats holding 12 of 13 aldermanic seats, the mayor's chair and the office of alderman-at-large. City Judge Herbert A. Richter is also a Democrat and is expected to seek another four-year term.

You are sunshine's magic art. You are warmth for latent blossoms.

In the garden of my heart. You are a spring of living water. When the cares of life oppress. You are cool refreshing showers. For my arid loneliness.

Angel of mine, let me be, 'til earth's last parting. What you really are to me.

Georgia Police Probing Death of West Hurley Man

RICHMOND HILL, Ga.

Georgia State Police today were without any definite clues that might lead to the solution of the death of J. Karl Hartfuer, 75-year-old retired insurance broker from West Hurley, N. Y., whose badly beaten body was found in a motel room here.

Authoritative sources said Hartfuer, an Ulster County golf champion in 1964 was discovered dead in a room by a maid on Thursday. He apparently had been murdered two days before the discovery was made, police theorized.

It was reported he had been beaten and stabbed by his attacker.

State Police had a nationwide alarm out for the victim's automobile which was taken by the killer to make a getaway.

A report noted that police learned Hartfuer's room had been broken into and his money was taken.

Late reports indicated that a suspect had been picked up for questioning although no arrest had been made.

Hartfuer's wife, Ruth A. Hartfuer, died on Jan. 16. The bereaved man left home for a months stay in Florida, and he was on his way back to Ulster County when he stopped at a motel for the night. After an early supper he reportedly retired to his room on Tuesday.

The exact time of his death was not determined.

It was not known how much money the man had with him at the time he met the untimely death.

This community is just outside Savannah, Ga.

Hartfuer was born Sept. 9, in Buffalo, a son of the late Karl and Anna Hartfuer. He resided in West Hurley many years.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. William Schechter of New York City, Mrs. Jack Gibson of West Hurley, Mrs. Robert Hastie and Miss Bonnie Hartfuer of West Hurley. Ten grandchildren also survive.

A requiem Mass will be offered Monday at 10 a.m. at St. Joan of Arc Church, Woodstock. Burial will be later in Woodstock Cemetery. There will be no calling hours.

'Best of Bake-Off' Recipes Released to The Freeman

Crescent dinner rolls with a melt-away marshmallow center are one of America's new baking sensations. Crescent Puffs by Mrs. Edna M. Holmgren of Hopkins, Minn., recently were named "Best of Bake-Off" at Pillsbury's Bake-Off 20.

The crescent dinner roll recipe was one of 3 divisional grand prize winners taking top place in the refrigerated fresh dough division. Crescent dinner rolls are wrapped around cinnamon and sugar coated marshmallows to make the treat: the crescent dough puffs up during baking as the marshmallows melt away, leaving a rich cinnamon center.

Top winner in the convenience mix division was Mrs. Earl Wyman of Pembina, N. D., and her Very Berry Lemon Cake. Lemon batter cake mix for convenience, yogurt for moisture and richness, and canned or fresh blueberries for added taste are combined into an unfrosted bundt cake which is served with a blueberry sauce.

A One Step Chocolate Roll Up won grand prize in the flour division for Mrs. Marlin C. Senne of Thompson, Iowa. Chocolate cake and a coconut-pecan filling are baked together, then rolled-up jelly roll fashion to make a quick and convenient version of a favorite dessert.

Runner-up prizes of $2,000 in the three divisions went to Mrs. Donaphin A. Schlunkert, Jr., of China Lake, Calif.; Mrs. William S. Bradfield of Overland Park, Kan.; and Mrs. Kenneth McGrath of Salisbury, Md.

Mrs. Schlunkert's Cookie Rust Pecan Pie (in the refrigerated fresh dough division) features butterscotch nut slice 'n' bake cookie dough and instant butterscotch pudding mix in a dessert which combines pecan pie and a butterscotch cookie crust.

Mrs. Bradfield's Cheesy Garlic Hot Roll Braid (in the convenience mix division) uses hot roll mix and spices for a hot bread filled with a buttery, garlic, herb and Parmesan cheese combination.

Mrs. McGrath's Quickie Stickle Buns (in the flour division) need no flouring, kneading, rolling out or cutting. The dough is dropped into muffin cups over a mixture of nuts and brown sugar.

Winner of the junior contestant (12 to 18) award was Vicki C. Belschner, a 15-year-old ninth grader from Amherst, Neb. Her Nutty Cookie Rings are donut-shaped cookies made with five ingredients: all-purpose flour, butter, sugar, orange-flavored gelatin and chopped peanuts.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Since imitation leather is so popular now, I have a hint on how to top-stitch it. Use a strip of brown paper (one inch wide) and baste it where you will top-stitch. Saw one-quarter inch from basting threads.

At no time let the presser foot touch the leather. It will wrinkle up if you do. I have tried this myself and it works.

Mary Walker
It works. You angel pie.
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Since turkey is so reasonable now, I feel I should serve it often. Perhaps other homemakers with small families like mine have difficulty using up a large turkey before the family is tired of it.

Even if we have company, we still have oodles of turkey leftovers, so I wrap some large pieces in double plastic and put in my freezer.

At a later date, I put a layer of turkey in bottom of a casserole and cover with some cream soup such as mushroom, celery or chicken. Heat at 350 degrees for about twenty minutes until bubbly. Delicious!

A Reader

It was, gal!

I tried it with chicken. So nice and thick. I spooned it over hot biscuits, split in half, and it was fit for any king.

For fun, sprinkle grated cheese on top. Mmm, was it ever good!

Heloise

Dear Folks:

Instead of folding bath towels and sheets as we ordinarily do, try folding them lengthwise until the "tube" is as narrow as you want it, then instead of folding them over the other way, pleat them in accordion fashion! These folds are the greatest.

Another good thing about this is when you pick up a towel or sheet, it unfolds immediately.

Moreover, since some are bigger and thicker than others, you can see exactly what size it is right there. Absolutely the greatest for pillowcases.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I was lying in bed the other night—late—when a storm came up. And since my husband gets mad at me if I don't get up, no matter what hour it is . . . I said aloud to him, "A storm is so much like a baby. It comes any hour of the night and gets you up whether you want to be or not."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 22, 1969

Academic Freedom

In the name of academic freedom, many young faculty members in colleges across the country have been prominent in student demonstrations, sit-ins, and even riots. Radical students, of course, misused the term for their own purposes.

The American public had begun to wonder if the college and university faculties had all gone amuck, like the radical students and their sympathizers. The answer has come from Columbia University, where student rioting drove President Grayson Kirk to resign, a year ago, and where disruptions have recurred ever since.

A hundred Columbia faculty members, who fully expect their number will be swelled to include a large majority of the 5,000 faculty members, signed a statement warning that unless disruptions were halted, academic freedom might be destroyed. That is a defense of real academic freedom, for there is no freedom when classes are disrupted and faculty and students alike are not permitted to pursue the work for which they came together. Such actions are bound to result in severe regulation of all learning centers or the dispersing of them.

Declaring that the university "has the obligation to defend itself," the statement criticized the amnesty granted students who were involved in last year's disturbances. It said, "Justice is denied the community if disciplinary cases go unresolved and all proceedings are subsequently abandoned."

About the same time, Harvard University was demonstrating its resolve to stop disruption in its classes. It ordered the arrest of four young men and one young woman, members of a roving band of eight radicals who played a role in the disorders at Columbia University last spring.

The five were not Harvard students. They were arrested after their leader shouted down Dr. Alex Inkeles, a sociologist whose lectures they had been harassing. It was one of a series of attempts by outsiders to prevent professors from teaching at Harvard.

We hope these two incidents will put iron in the will of college and university faculties and administrators to clear their campuses of agitators and get on with the business of higher education.

Figuring the Surtax

A nationwide sampling of the 2.9 million completed tax returns already submitted to the Internal Revenue Service turned up 63,000 on which the figuring of the surcharge was somehow mishandled. If this reflected the state of mind of the American taxpayer, then one in forty-six will have erred in their surtax account.

The service is concerned. It had taken the precaution to append instructions that should have guided the taxpayers, but apparently many are relying instead on what they think is the proper way to complete the additional temporary tax.

The law is clear. The tax is a 10 per cent rate, that is true. But it was effective for only three-quarters of 1968 for individual taxpayers. So, the surtax on 1968 returns is 7.5 per cent over the normal tax, not 10 per cent. The additional 2.5 per cent will be due on income earned in 1969 for which a return will be made a year from now.

The warning should save the remaining millions to make their returns up to the deadline April 15 from overpayment and a claim on the Government for the extra surcharge they would pay. Take your credit now for the 2.5 per cent not due until 1970. Don't complicate things for the tax collector by this simple error.

The Mouse That Roars Like a Lion

Henry J. Taylor Says

Sen. Fulbright's Errors

On February 25, 1963, color-blind Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright told us on TV: "Don't rock the boat in Latin America." He was still congratulating himself on America's failure at the Bay of Pigs.

Dead wrong — catastrophically wrong — again and again, how does such a muddleheaded man still parade as a wise man whether in the current missile defense debate or whatnot? Senator Fulbright opposed any kind of intervention in Cuba unless we could waltz in with a group of Latin-American states, as if our country could order such a tidy state of affairs. In the absence of "collective security," Fulbright preferred to take his chances on Fidel Castro. That, typically, is his record.

When this strange thinker discovered that even a trickle of intervention was moving toward the Bay of Pigs he, among others, demanded that the White House call off the U.S. air cover over the embattled men on the beaches and back away from even the incredibly fragile plans. Senator Fulbright has much to answer for in this.

A fire in his TV eye, he is on record as follows: "I am sure that if American armed forces were used unilaterally the reaction in the Western Hemisphere would be so severe that we would lose more in other countries than we would gain in Cuba."

I do not know to what beach Mr. Fulbright goes to hide his head in the sand about the Reds, but how could America conceivably lose more in other Latin-American countries than by the subsequent Soviet military and political lodgement 90 miles from our shores.

Actually, the heart-sickening regret throughout Latin America is not for our intervention but that our intervention did not succeed.

Within a year and a half Russia had been so encouraged that she placed her troops and missiles in Cuba. This required President Kennedy to "confront" the U.S.S.R. Within another year Castro's subversion was so damaging that President Kennedy was forced to make a Latin-American trip to tell protesting leaders in the hemisphere that there was nothing he could do about it. Six elected Latin-American governments promptly fell, including Dr. Juan Bosch's government in the Dominican Republic.

And then when President Johnson courageously moved to block a Red take-over in Santo Domingo to keep the Soviet and a second Castro out of the Caribbean, who led the loudest protest? Senator J. William Fulbright. "It is inconceivable to me that what would have happened would be a military threat to the United States," he said, leading himself to the TV cameras like a Coast Guard icebreaker.

Next came a tough and dangerous Berlin crisis. We had announced that we would stand firm against the Red pressures. Color-blind Fulbright had gone off to London to make a speech. He seized the moment to announce there: "I thoroughly disagree with the policy of the United States."

The Kremlin thinks (and hopes) it has a right to listen to the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. How could Mr. Fulbright have made it harder for us to maintain our sworn defense of Berlin?

Next came a NATO crisis. We have been doing everything we can to hold NATO together in the defense of Western Europe and of the United States General De Gaulle pulled out of NATO. "I think De Gaulle may be right about NATO," said Senator Fulbright.

Then off to Australia he went. He talked appeasement of North Vietnam. And the Australian roof fell in on him when he admitted in a Canberra interview that he did not even recall that "Australia is supplying troops to the war in Vietnam."

Next came the bombing debate and Mr. Fulbright, an eager-running hound on any publicity track, was right out there in front demanding that President Johnson stop the bombing of North Vietnam. Again, he was as wrong as a summer oyster about Hanoi's response and his pontificating and predictions, as usual, turned out to be totally unfounded. Meanwhile, the spearhead force in the Senate for the admission of Red China into the United Nations is J. William Fulbright.

To err is human, but to be wrong — repeatedly and catastrophically wrong — on such a scale as this is downright dangerous. The next time you see this muddled man sagely nodding his head on TV in his habitual way as if to say, "If you only knew what I know," remember the record.

U.S. Flexes Muscle for Korea

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

Koreans will be a long time forgetting the Pueblo capture. It's associated with a North Korean attempt that same week to assassinate South Korea's President Chung Hee Park.

Koreans this reporter has talked to still don't understand why the United States didn't react.

Still more puzzling to Koreans was the U.S. insistence that South Korean troops take no retaliatory action.

No responsible Korean wanted to start a war with the north. But there is a belief deeply rooted in Asian philosophy that men must not stand still under such open provocation. Otherwise, worse provocations will follow.

As Koreans reason, to let deliberate, openly derisive enemy aggressive acts go unpunished, destroys the people's confidence, convinces the enemy you are without the will to defend yourself and leads him into miscalculations that could lead to war.

The U.S. insistence against quick, sharp retaliation by the South Koreans led to one of the stormiest all-night sessions of U.S.-Korean diplomatic history.

The U.S. action gave rise to deep doubts in Korea. They were not made happier by multiplying news accounts of demonstrations and protests, or by letters and speeches by prominent Americans that indirectly suggested the South Vietnamese be abandoned to Communist slaughter, as were the North Vietnamese in 1954.

Koreans asked if the United States would not defend South Vietnamese to the end, would it defend South Koreans?

Washington attempted to mollify Korean fears by sending air units and beefing up military aid.

But these were not convincing arguments. Washington had not only sent aid but had sacrificed a great many men in South Vietnam. But it appeared to Korean eyes that we were not willing to stay for the long haul.

Koreans have tied their future to the alliance with America. Some were beginning to wonder if they had not made a mistake.

Thus Focus Retina, the joint U.S.-Korean exercise in which 2,500 U.S. troops were airlifted from the United States virtually nonstop for parachute-in joint field exercises with the South Koreans.

To the troops abroad the plane this reporter rode from North Carolina to Korea, it was almost a routine operation. Poker flourished much of the 24 hours.

To the Koreans this reporter talked to after landing, the exercises meant something more. They were dramatic. They were deliberately carried out in a way to make the North Koreans unhappy.

They came within 60 days of President Nixon's inauguration.

Gerard Smith Hints He Created Idea of 'Hot Line' to Kremlin

WASHINGTON—With all due modesty, President Nixon's new disarmament chief, Gerard Smith, has leaked the word that he originated the idea of a hot line between the White House and the Kremlin.

Indeed, his foresight in advocating this emergency communications line reportedly helped to persuade the President that Smith was the man to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

This column, however, has traced the history of the hot line and has discovered some interesting coincidences. Jess Gorkin, the enterprising editor of Parade magazine, began exploring the feasibility of a hot line the first week of December 1959. He made inquiries at both the State and Defense Departments.

Curiously, Smith also wrote a memo in December 1959 proposing an emergency communications system between Washington and Moscow. The memo got as far as Christian Herter, then Secretary of State, who rejected the idea.

Gorkin took up his idea with top Soviet and American leaders, including both Sen. John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The Parade editor traveled all the way to Moscow to see Khrushchev, missed him in the Kremlin but caught him in New York City during Khrushchev's American visit.

Gorkin proposed the hot line in an open letter published in Parade on March 20, 1960. He followed up with several other articles over the next three years.

Both Kennedy and Khrushchev first learned of the hot line idea from Gorkin, who kept urging them to act on it. In 1962, Kennedy told Gorkin at the White House that the hot line "would be installed when certain technical problems were worked out."

After the hot line was approved in the spring of 1963, President Kennedy wrote Gorkin on April 23 of that year: "I remember when you first brought this new and imaginative idea to my attention back in 1960...Your advocacy of faster communications between the United States and the Soviet Union was sharply underlined during the Cuban crisis."

As for Smith's rejected memo, it lay dormant in the State Department's files until June 1963 when Parade published Kennedy's letter to Gorkin. White House aides McGeorge Bundy and Walt Rostow decided it would be good for the morale of their policy planning group to give Smith some recognition. Smith was then Assistant Secretary of State in charge of policy planning.

Bundy and Rostow fished Smith's dormant letter out of the files and called the President's attention to the December 1959 date. This, of course, was a few weeks before Gorkin spoke to Kennedy but apparently after he made his first inquiries at the State Department.

Although Kennedy had never seen the Smith memo, he wrote a letter at the urging of his aides in July 1963 crediting Smith with first thinking of the hot line. Smith has now been using this letter to promote his career.

When he was approached by reporters, he merely stated with becoming modesty: "Success has many fathers. I make no claims to the hot line idea except that President Kennedy believed I originated it."

White House Bickering

President Nixon was disturbed over a recent report in this column that his aides already are forming cliques and maneuvering for power. He laid down the law again that he doesn't want this sort of politicking in the White House.

Despite his instructions, however, the maneuvering and the backbiting is continuing. The two aides who are most cordially disliked because of their arbitrariness are John Ehrlichman and Bob Haldeman.

Other staff members have taken to calling them "Eichmann" and "Von Haldeman," unflattering references to the Nazi SS leaders.

Fact or Fiction
One of President Nixon's most compelling arguments for establishing an anti-ballistic missile system has been exposed, quite inadvertently, by his military leaders as phony.

The President pleaded at his press conference last week that the taxpayers must cough up between $6 billion and $7 billion for a limited ABM system because the Soviets have one.

"They have 67 ABM sites deployed around Moscow," he announced direly.

What the President neglected to add is that the 67 Soviet ABM sites cannot protect Moscow. Nixon's own generals have admitted privately that they have no doubt of their ability to destroy Moscow, despite the elaborate Soviet defenses.

This assessment is available inside the Pentagon, where this column had no trouble confirming it. Senators who put the same question to military leaders were told privately that the United States still has the capability to knock out Moscow.

In other words, the Russians have wasted all the rubles it cost them to build their 67 ABM sites. Now President Nixon wants the American taxpayers to invest billions in a system equally dubious. For neither Soviet nor American scientists have solved the technological problems that would make an ABM system foolproof.

Note: Senators Gaylord Nelson, Wis., and George McGovern, S.D., both Democratic doves, are quietly planning a filibuster to hold up Senate action on the ABM system and to focus public attention on the debate. The issue isn't expected to be brought up in the Senate until late April.

Evolution of Bob Kennedy To Racial Peacemaker Role

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From the moment of John Kennedy's death, his brother Robert became the prime embodiment of the Kennedy mystique. Being thus looked upon was at once his banner and his burden.

The late Bob Kennedy was the carrier of a memory that many in the nation wished to cling to, some in hope of dispelling a sense of guilt that hung on from that awful day in Dallas, others looking to a time when the younger man might stand at the high place from which his brother was struck down.

The younger Kennedy accepted this role as new torchbearer willingly, but it would have been thrust upon him in any event.

Yet as some of his friends convincingly insist, and many will recall who saw his first campaign in New York in 1964, Bob Kennedy never really lost his own strong individuality in the whirlwind of the gathering legend.

Nevertheless, as he plunged belatedly into the 1968 campaign for the presidency on March 16, he seemed suddenly to make himself more Kennedy the symbol than Kennedy the man.

As Washington reporter Jules Witcover observes in his new book, "85 Days — The Last Campaign of Robert Kennedy," a work which later historians may be able to embellish but not supplant, the late senator could not tell how much of the first massive human outpouring at his campaign appearances was for him and how much for his brother.

In that confusion, he appeared deliberately to be invoking the image of the late President, mostly through phrase and vocal intonation.

Reporters sharply attuned to the many varieties of political behavior gave Kennedy poor marks for this — as they did for the early excesses of his speeches delivered in the initial flood of emotion that followed his entry. Having found his reasons for running, he threw off the governing caution that had kept his "gut" feelings in leash and used his new freedom to the hilt.

Yet, sensitive always to political signals from whatever quarter, Kennedy soon reined himself partly back. There was no place in his plans, however, for the fuller restraints of earlier times. He had too much ground to make up and too many people to win over.

As the grinding campaign moved on, at length an evident transformation occurred. The candidate shook off his engulfment by the family legend, found a new dimension for his own individuality while still holding within the legend's bounds and, most significant of all, discovered a purpose for himself which carried him far beyond simple "restoration politics" — putting a Kennedy back in the White House.

Witcover persuasively suggests that the turning point was the April 4 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis. In that grim hour, addressing blacks who at first were largely uncomprehending of the news, the senator found a theme, a goal — the national reconciliation of the races.

Kennedy, says his able chronicler, was never the same again. But it was one thing to talk reconciliation and see himself as unifier and possible peacemaker on the torn urban front. It was something else to find evidence that he might make it work.

He got his first suggestive proofs in industrial northern Indiana, where blacks and supposedly "backlash" white ethnic peoples flowed into the streets in huge, nearly endless ceremonies of trust and affection.

His Indiana primary victory proved the reality of Kennedy's amalgam of blacks and white blue-collar voters. New confirmation came swiftly in Nebraska, and then, crucially, in sprawling California.

His June 4 triumph there brought Kennedy, the "heir apparent," his identity in full. The assassin's bullet robs us of knowing what that self-discovery held for the man and the nation. Yet Witcover's "85 Days" offers a heritage of value: it shows an anguished figure molded to a man of promise by a punishing ordeal probably unequalled in the reality and incredible force of its humanness.

Vietnam War
Editor, The Freeman:

In the past, I have read some interesting letters to The Freeman written by Mr. Ronald Sobieraj. However, in his letter of March 19, I fail to agree that we should withdraw from Vietnam. We must withdraw with grace and dignity and this must be done with a military victory. But before this we must clean Washington of the traitors who are responsible for the No Win Policy. Also the giant industrial-military complex must be shattered. There are many who do not want the war won. They plan to make it last for years.

These are the people who helped the Russians set up an airline between New York City and Moscow on the very week that American casualties were the highest due to weapons furnished the enemy by the Reds. This was in appreciation.

These are the people who refuse to allow the Port of Haiphong to be bombed and closed. Many of our foreign aid allies bring supplies to the enemy via Haiphong. Also many ships belonging to Castro's Cuba loaded with materials to prolong the war are permitted by the Washington traitors to sail through the Panama Canal, which we own, on their way to the Port of Haiphong.

Is it any wonder why plans are underway to seize our guns?

As far as the American people are concerned the Washington traitors are more deadly than our enemies in the Kremlin.

Yours truly

Drug Traffic
Editor, The Freeman:

When an infectious disease strikes a community steps are usually taken to halt the infection and preventive measures are initiated to confine the disorder.

The use of drugs and narcotics by our young people can certainly be classified as having all the aspects of an evil plague and unless we treat this threat as a destructive force then we are surely going to pay a terrible price in lives lost, in moral dissipation, and a great human waste that cannot be entirely reclaimed.

A steady flow of all kinds of drugs is pouring into the Hudson Valley. The source of this traffic probably originates in New York City where pandering to drug addiction is a huge and lucrative business. The whole community must face up to the fact that a very real and mortal danger exists and all the power of law enforcement must be employed to combat this peril before it engulfs a whole generation of young people. The public must use all the massive authority of citizen strength, action, and dedicated effort to halt the awful blight of drug and narcotics use before the enormity of the problem overwhelms us all.

LEON VAN AMBURGH,

TEEN SCENE: Charlie Is Pride in Country

By LEI

The black influence on American music has never been more obvious than it is today. Popular records lean heavily toward soul music and rhythm and blues. Popular groups, regardless of race, are performing more and more blues, boogie, and jazz.

Paradoxically, there is one black entertainer who probably owes his success to the fact that he puts out a pure white sound—and in a field of music which, up until now, has been almost entirely dominated by white musicians.

The singer's name is Charley Pride—and it is not a new name to those who enjoy country music. Charley has had several strong c & w hits, including a few that made inroads into the pop field. At present he's making waves again with his single of an old Hank Williams hit, "Kaw-Liga," the story of a really woodenheaded cigar-store Indian. This song, a novelty number, is a bit of a variation from the usual Pride hits—ballads delivered in the smooth, melodious style popularized by Marty Robbins and Eddie Arnold.

Charlie Pride was born in Sledge, Miss., 31 years ago. He's married, and he and his wife, Zene, take "pride" in their growing family—and in the growing popularity of Papa Pride's version of country music.

Makes History

He won the Music City News Award for the Most Promising Established Male Artist in 1967. Early last year, playing for a dance at the Panther Hall in Fort Worth, he made local history with the size of the audience. In addition to a large number of single releases, several of which have topped the country charts in the past two years, Charley has four albums on the stands, now, with another due any day.

In a field as full of emerging talent as country music, such a steady rise to fame is unusual for any star. In Charley's case, it is little short of spectacular. The only other black musician to gain popularity in country music recently was Ray Charles—and Ray's brand of c & w was far closer to blues than it was to the usual sound of country music.

What is ahead for Charley Pride? He has musical talent. In a field of music which boasts of the quantity, rather than the quality, of its singers, he has proved that he is no one-record sensation who will vanish at the slightest competition. However, some wonder if he has not had to pay too great a price for his success thus far.

What of Future

There is no way of knowing whether Charley Pride consciously imitates the style of white country singers in order to gain acceptance in a field where a man's songs are often better-known than his face. In this case, the day is probably approaching fast when he will decide, like Ray Charles, to reclaim his musical heritage. Certainly in this time of increased black awareness, there must be many pressures on him to do so. Very probably he has the ability to move out of the limited, and limiting, field of country music.

Whatever 1969 has in store for Charley, he can take "pride" in having brought to millions of country fans the realization that the "country" belongs to people of all races. He has opened the gates of the Country Music Hall of Fame to other talented black singers who perhaps had hesitated to enter the field because it was believed to be purely a variety of white music.

And country music can take "pride" in having introduced a new talent to the country—which will be hearing a lot more from the young man who appropriately titled one of his albums "Pride of Country Music."

Marcia J. Miller, daughter of Mrs. Melvin C. Miller of RD 4, Kingston and a senior at Hope College, Holland, Mich., is participating in the Philadelphia Urban Semester sponsored by the Great Lakes Colleges Association during the spring semester.

The 12 liberal arts colleges in the association have jointly organized the Philadelphia Urban Semester to allow students who contemplate a vocation involving urban problems to spend a term in the inner-city of Philadelphia.

The program is an experiment in apprentice style learning outside the classroom. Students spend a major portion of their time working in teams with professional teachers, school personnel, social workers and urban renewal workers as well as with staff and private agencies. Problems revealed in work assignments are then thrashed out in seminars with other students, with experts in urban affairs and with faculty.

New Paltz Girl Meets State Legislators

A CAPITAL TRIP—Sandra DuBois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald DuBois of New Paltz meets with Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (L) and Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. at the recent 34th annual state-wide 4-H Capital Day activities in Albany. Thomas Atkins (R) Ulster County 4-H Division leader also attended the session.

ALBANY A tour of capital land with at least a passing look at the workings of state government was the honor accorded an Ulster County teenager recently.

Sandra DuBois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald DuBois of New Paltz and Thomas Atkins, Ulster County 4-H Division Leader met informally with Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison at the recent 34th Annual State-wide 4-H Capital Day activities in Albany.

This honor award trip was started by Albany, Rensselaer and Schenectady Counties as a means of acquainting 4-Hers with the State Government. At that time it was a one day trip and open to any 4-Hers who could attend. It afforded an opportunity to meet the Governor, State Legislators and department heads, and to observe places that they otherwise would have little opportunity to see. This event has grown into a two day program that, for some years, every county with 4-H work has participated in.

This citizenship trip is an excellent honor for Ulster County's outstanding 4-H members. W. Bruce McCord, 13 son of Mrs. Louise McCord of 14

Wallkill also was selected, but was unable to attend.

While in Albany, the Ulster County delegation saw the State Legislature in action, met informally with Assemblyman Bell and Senator Rolison, toured places of interest and attended a reception given by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Sandra is a junior in high school and was selected from 15 many applicants throughout the county.

Important upcoming dates for Ulster County 4-Hers include a number of specialized meetings in various fields.

June is the month to look forward to however as the State 4-H Congress meets June 25 through 27 and the Camping season starts June 29. The camp period will continue through July 19, and then it will be fair time—Ulster County Fair, Aug. 15 through 17 and State Fair Aug. 26 through Sept. 1.

KB Features Strongest Field Ever

By CHARLES J. TIANO

KINGSTON

Area basketball observers are almost unanimous in their opinion that the galaxy of collegiate and high school talent lined up for the annual Kingston Basketball Tournament is the finest in the history of the event.

The tournament gets under way with a doubleheader Sunday night at the municipal auditorium.

Aero Lake Airport of Kingston meets St. Andrew's Bishops of Yonkers in the 7:30 p.m. opener, followed by DeWitt Cadillac and DeMico Motors in an all-Kingston clash at 8:30 p.m.

The eight team field also includes the perennially tough Pine Plains Bombardiers, Clarkstown Recs, Felicello's Pipers of Marlboro and Wiley's Flying Aces of Poughkeepsie.

Uhl with Lakers

Aero Lake is anchored by Jumpin' Joe Uhl and also features Alex Osovick, the Port Jervis High School coach who holds the all-time DUSO single game scoring record of 67 points. Others on the roster are Wayne Ranich, ex-Port Jervis High All-DUSO; Leon Hanna, Bob Bondar, Bill Boines, Ron Thomas and Charlie Brown.

The Bishops have a well balanced team featuring Ty Quill and Al Overby, a pair of ex-UCCC performers; Frank McCray and several other top area cagers.

DeWitt Cadillac goes with an all-Kingston lineup of Player-Coach Len Beck, Tom Fury, Mickey Bush, Mel Williams, Ray Lucas, Bill Huber and Jim Massa.

DeMico Motors is the original Ulster County Community College 1968-69 squad bolstered by the addition of Pete Kane, high-scoring State U. New Paltz player and Irving Rivers, a 6-4, All-City selection at Andrew Jackson High in New York City.

Other players on Coach Bill DuBois' roster are Jerry Moss, Gary Kirkwood, Tony Pough, Mike Derrenbacher, Ray Lindhorst and Westchester CCC ace, Steve Washington, a top scorer and rebounder.

Bialosuknia Due

Pine Plains Bombardiers features a star-studded team coached by the hardy perennial, George Steutzel. The top name is Wes Bialosuknia, former All-American and Oakland Oaks player; York Laresse, former NBA; Tom Hemans, 6-9 center who was MVP at Poughkeepsie last year; Bill Telasky, ex-George Washington star and Tri-City Brewers; Dave Bleau, Curt Flood and John Green.

Clarkstown Recs from Rockland County feature a star-studded team coached by Joe Scally, former Ithaca College standout. Several former college stars are on the roster, including Rich Dyer, N.Y.U.; Art Orlando, Marty Baietta, Grady O'Malley, George Bruns, all former Manhattan players; Ben O'Neil and Willie Williams of Jersey State and Paul Toscani of Wyoming State.

Felicello Pipers of Marlboro, a durable tournament team, are built around Larry McClinton, Rod Aurigemma and Pat Sileno. Wiley's, undefeated Hyde Park league champions with 35 straight victories, are spearheaded by Big Ed Shuster, former State U. ace. Others on the squad are Fred Weiss, former Marist guard; Steve Albrecht, ex-Boston College; Jay Pette and Ernie Maywalt.

Marshall O'Neil, who started the season with UCCC, may be an added entry for Wiley's.

Doubleheaders are also scheduled on March 30 and April 11, with the finals on April 13.

Yankees' New "Mickey Mantle" Needs Salt-Pepper Treatment

By United Press International

The heir-apparent to Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, Tony Solaita, was cut from the main club squad Friday and the Los Angeles Dodgers proceeded to chop off the Yank six game winning streak with a 9-0 shellacking Friday night.

Solaita, minor league player of the year in the Carolina League a year ago with 51 home runs, hasn't shown he can handle big league pitching, and the parent club couldn't handle Don Drysdale, Art Darwin or Jim Brewer as New York suffered its first shutout of the spring on four hits.

Mike Kekich, who came to the Yanks from L.A. started and was wild and ineffective. The Dodgers belted him for five runs on seven hits, including two by Drysdale and a home run by Wes Parker.

The Baltimore Orioles, leading the Grapefruit League, needed only one inning to dispose of Ted Williams' hapless Washington Senators. Baltimore scored all 11 runs in the fifth inning by ripping Bruce Howard and Dennis Higgins. With a bases loaded situation, Howard forced in two runs by hitting a batter and walking Frank Robinson. Higgins came on and the Orioles scored nine more runs, highlighted by Paul Blair's two run homer and a two run double by rookie Don Baylor. Camilo Pascual had worked four fine innings for Washington, holding the Birds to two singles while stretching his scoreless string this spring to 11 innings.

The Cleveland Indians split their squad and both A and B teams won. Sam McDowell and Jack Hamilton combined for a four-hit job against the California Angels for a 3-0 victory, while the B squad staggered to a 10-9 win over the Seattle Pilots, even though the Pilots hit five homers.

The Chicago Cubs saw their three game winning streak ended violently by a 15-8 trouncing at the hands of the Oakland Athletics, who scored seven runs after two were out in the second inning. Cub rookie Jim Qualls, however, came up with a 4-for-4 performance, giving the second baseman a .643 batting average.

The Minnesota Twins, with Jim Kaat making an impressive third inning debut, won their eighth of nine, 3-2, over the Kansas City Royals. George Mitterwald singled home the winning run in the ninth.

Sydney O'Brien's homer off Bob Priddy in the ninth gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 decision over the Chicago White Sox, who also lost the services of Tomms McCraw for at least 10 weeks. The veteran utility man tore a ligament in his left knee while sliding into third.

The Mets earlier this week tabbed third baseman Amos Otis as an "untouchable" during their effort to obtain Joe Torre from the Atlanta Braves. Otis made two errors and ran his batting slump to 0 for 13 as the Mets bowed to the Cardinals, 5-3.

Deron Johnson's homer and run-producing single took the Phillies into the ninth ahead by 2-1 over the Detroit Tigers, but an error and two walks with the bases full let the Tigers get home on top, 4-2. Al Kaline had three hits, including his first homer of the spring.

Gary Nolan pitched six innings for Cincinnati and was nicked for two runs and six hits, but Tony Perez broke up the 3-3 game by punching a single in the seventh to drive in two runs and give the Reds a 5-3 win.

The Montreal Expos and the Houston Astros, still trying to resolve the Clendenen-Staub-Alou mess, played each other and the Astros won, 5-2 with innings of two-hit ball. Two oldtimers tangled as Johnny Podres, attempting a comeback with the San Diego Padres, gave up a two-run homer to Willie Mays. The San Francisco Giants went on to a 9-6 victory. Mays' blast snapped Podres' shutout string at 12 2-3 innings.

Larry Dierker pitching five

Pitching Is Key To Dukes' Hopes

By MORT LAFFIN

MARLBORO

Eight experienced ball players return to the fold for Coach John Kroh and his Marlboro High School baseball team: The Dukes finished first in the Ulster County Athletic League and won the Section Nine Championship. Marlboro was 9-3 in the league and 16-4 overall.

Kroh, who is also Athletic Director for Marlboro, says that he is facing a rebuilding year, particularly in the pitching and catching departments. These two positions are of the utmost importance, particularly in high school baseball and a strong staff can mean the difference between victory and defeat.

"Hitting, though it appears fair at this point will also be a problem for us," said the coach. "We lost Bill Giamette to graduation and he was our leading hitter." Giamette was a pitcher-outfielder. Also lost to graduation were Mike Pagano, a pitcher-catcher and Roy McAtter, a shortstop.

Returning to the team are: Dan Pagano, reserve catcher, Frank Salzano, utility man, John Mandian, first base, Tom Monahan, second baseman, Dan Passante, third baseman, Dale Sutton, pitcher-outfielder, Rich Passante, centerfielder, Vin Monti, outfielder-pitcher.

Vieing for position with the varsity are: William Mirabella, George Serra, James Dirago, Brian Kalley, Rich Gerentine, Paul Ibsen, Chris Stofe, Dan Baxter, Mike LoFaro, Lewis Rhoades, and James Lyons.

Kroh would make no predictions as to how his team would fare this season.

"I don't wish to go out on a limb", he said. "We have a fair hitting ball club and if the pitching and catching come through, well, that's about all I can say."

Obviously John Kroh would hate to have to eat crow at the end of the year.

WORLD CUP WINNER Karl Schranz (R) of Austria, holds up arm of victorious Swiss skier Dumeng Giovanoli (L) who scored an upset victory in the Men's Giant Slalom of the North American Alpine Ski Championship, held Friday at Waterville Valley, New Hampshire.

Swiss-Freak Winner In Giant Slalom

WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. (UPI)—Dumeng Giovanoli of Switzerland scored an upset victory Friday in the men's giant slalom of the North American Alpine championships, who clinched the World Cup last weekend in Canada, refused.

"When you race, and you are prepared for two runs, you go all out," Schranz said. "A third run wouldn't have been good for me."

Schranz, skiing fourth, was timed in 1 minute, 22.50 seconds for his second run. Giovanoli, racing sixth, sped down in 1:22.10 for a combined time of 2:36.72—better by .18 seconds than Schranz' 2:36.90.

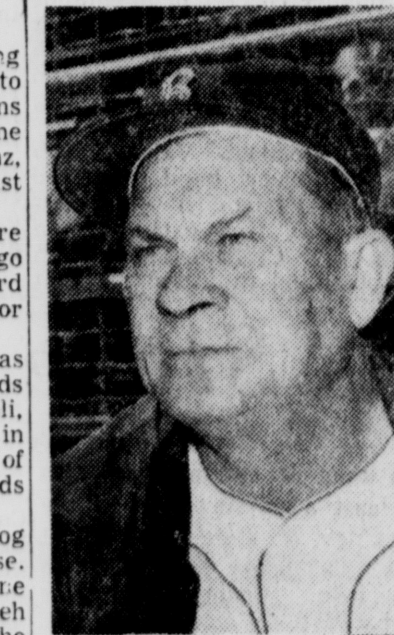

Throughout the day, fog covered at least half the course. It rolled in and out at one point covered all Mt. Tecumseh except 250 yards before the finish line. Light sleet fell constantly.

Tischhauser's combined time was 2:37.73 while Alain Penz of France was fourth at 2:38.02. Jean Noel Augert, also of France, was fifth at 2:38.12 and Billy Kidd, the top U.S. finisher, was sixth with a time of 2:38.29.

Fellow Swiss Jacob Tischhauser was third.

At the start of the second run, Matt, 21, fell more than halfway down the partially fogged-in course.

Because of the efforts on the course to help him, officials offered the next three skiers—

PINKY HIGGINS

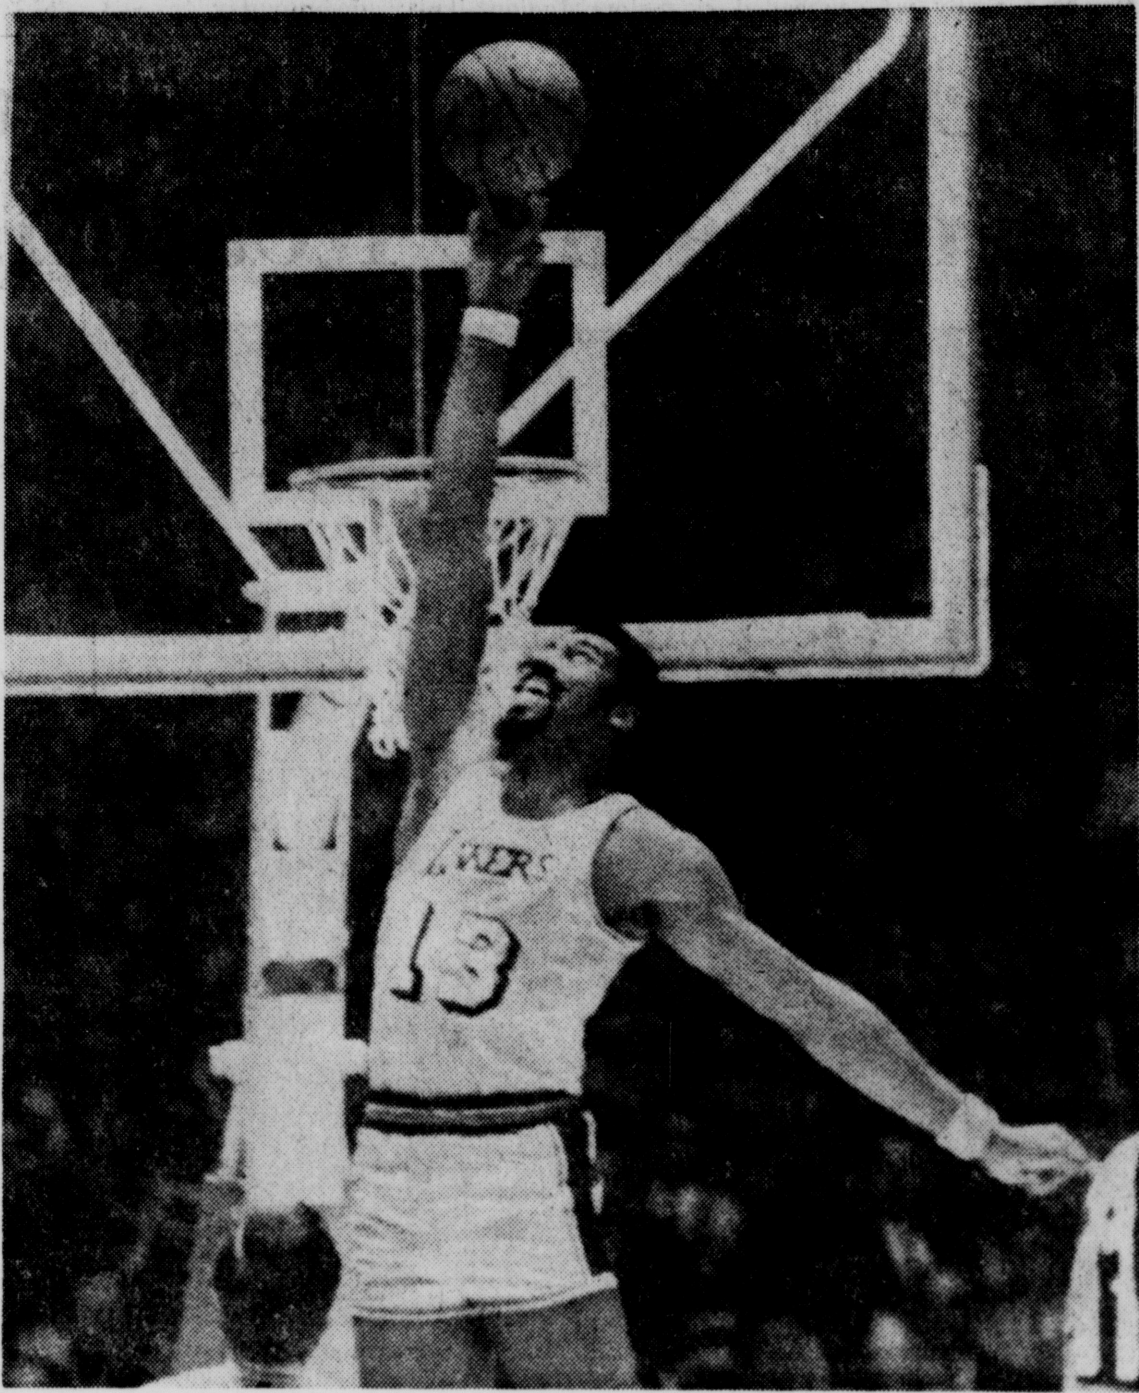

Michael (Pinky) Higgins, who helped bring the Boston Red Sox a pennant as a player but could not get them close to the crown as a manager, succumbed to a heart attack Friday only two days after his release from prison.

Higgins, 59, suffered a heart attack at his Dallas home and died shortly after reaching St. Paul's Hospital.

He was paroled from Louisiana State Prison Wednesday after serving two months of a four-year negligent homicide sentence.

Higgins pleaded guilty last January to running his car into a group of highway workers near Ruston, La. One of the workers was killed and three others injured.

A deputy warden at the Angola, La. prison said Higgins appeared in fine condition when he left prison.

Bullets Capture Eastern Division

By THE ASSOCIATE PRESS

The Baltimore Bullets, the ugly ducklings of 1968, are the glamorous Cinderella team of 1969 in the National Basketball Association.

The Bullets clinched the Eastern Division championship by whipping the Chicago Bulls 115-103 Friday night. They thus became only the second team in NBA history to jump from last to first in one season. Indianapolis did it in 1950.

Paced by Earl Monroe's 41 points, the Bullets pulled away in the last five minutes with a string of 12 straight points that broke an 89-89 tie.

Gene Shue, the happy Baltimore coach, gave full credit to Monroe. "The turning point in our success came last year when Monroe assumed the leadership of the team after we traded Don Ohl to the Hawks," he said.

"Everyone thought we would fold two months ago when Gus Johnson, our leading rebounder, was injured," continued Shue as he was doused with champagne by his players in the dressing room at Chicago.

The New York Knicks, fighting to overtake Philadelphia for second place, crept within one game of the 76ers by routing the Phoenix Suns 139-104.

Boston walloped Cincinnati 145-119, Detroit downed Seattle 110-104, San Francisco edged Milwaukee 103-100 and Los Angeles scored a 116-103 victory over Atlanta in other NBA games.

Sam Jones' 23 points paced the easy Boston victory over the Royals. Dave Gambee tallied 32 points in leading Detroit over Seattle. Dave Bing of Detroit got four assists to set a club record of 531 in one season. Shue held the old mark of 530, set in 1961, before he became the Baltimore coach.

The Knicks exploded for an 80-point second half to rout the Suns behind a balanced attack led by Dave DeBusschere and Walt Frazier, both with 24. Jeff Mullins paced San Francisco over the Bucks with 26 points.

The Lakers held an Elgin Baylor Night and the veteran 34-year-old Laker captain rebounded with 21 points against Atlanta.

Quarry Predicts KO Over Mathis

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI)—Jerry Quarry, a 12-5 underdog against Buster Mathis Monday night at Madison Square Garden in a heavyweight fight billed as an elimination bout, intends to knock out Buster inside of the six rounds.

"I have to", Jerry said, "because I want to make a plane to see my brother Mike in the National AAU Tournament at Kansas City on Tuesday."

The kid brother is a light heavyweight, but Jerry expects him to grow into the top weight class and become a contender, just like him.

Dear Abby

Romance Threatened

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widow for three years and have two teen-aged children. A daughter and a son.

A few months ago my husband's best friend whose wife passed away last year started calling on me. We've known each other for 25 years and have the deepest respect for one another. We enjoy each other's company and it's so good to have someone to be with after all this time. (Yes, it could be "love.")

My problem is my 16-year-old daughter. She treats him disgracefully and insults me each time he calls. She has even given me an ultimatum. "If you really love me, you won't see him again."

Abby, I love my daughter, but I don't want to quit seeing this man. My son adores him. How can I convince my daughter that this is a respectful form of companionship? I've talked to her for hours but can't get through to her. She won't let our minister talk to her either. Maybe she'll listen to you.

TRYING HARD
DEAR TRYING: Your daughter is angry and jealous because she feels she is "losing" her mother, after having recently lost her father. But that should not rule the course of your life, and you must not let it. Quit trying to explain your "feelings" to your daughter. Ask the family doctor to explain the facts of life to her. The girl needs help in understanding, but her problem should not be allowed to blight your own happiness.

DEAR ABBY: We have both been married twice before and each have children. He claims he loves me, but this is not the right time to get married. When I ask him WHEN will the time be right, he says he doesn't know, but isn't it.

I help him with his part-time work, and I have carried a hot lunch to him five days a week for three years. Plus I do up his laundry and give him supper at my place every evening and he has ALL his meals here with me on week-ends. I go to his place to help with the housework since his daughter (17) is too lazy to do anything. Besides this I take care of my own house and work nights. I average four hours sleep a night.

I love him dearly and we get along fine. We spend so much time together lots of people think we ARE married. So why doesn't he marry me?

SUCKER
DEAR SUCKER: Why should he? He's getting the whole show for the price of the amusement tax.

DEAR ABBY: I have been living in an empty marriage (in many ways) for many years. We put on a good show, but are strangers who cannot even discuss our problems with each other, so we keep very busy, each with our separate lives.

For some time I have been thinking of making a break, hoping to find a truly meaningful relationship. Am I crazy for considering giving up possessions and a comfortable place in society?

UNFULFILLED
DEAR UNFULFILLED: When the chips are down, each one of us must decide for himself what is worth how much. Only you can answer your question.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOKLET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

Bridge

Both Sides Blow Pin-pong Match

By Oswald & James Jacoby

West played out three top diamonds quickly. East discarded the jack of clubs on the third diamond. West gazed at it with interest before gathering in the trick. Then he played his fourth diamond.

The student declarer ruffed and played his ace of hearts. When West dropped the queen the student smiled happily and proceeded to play out all but one of his trumps slowly and carefully. He watched each discard with great interest and obviously was engaged in trying to count the distribution. It didn't do him any good. East sat in back of dummy with both black kings and the student had to lose the setting trick.

"Reminds me of pin-pong," said the Professor who was kibitzing. "The contract was batted back and forth."

"I don't understand," said the student. "What did I do wrong?"

"West could have made sure of beating you," said the Professor. "He looked at his partner's jack of clubs discard. If he had led a club instead of the fourth diamond, you would have been dead but he did lead the fourth diamond and you should have made your contract."

The professor was right as usual. When West dropped the queen of trumps under the ace, South could be sure that East would show up with both black kings. If West held either, he would have had 15 high card points and opened the bidding. With that knowledge South could have executed a Vienna coup by playing his three of spades to dummy's ace and then running all his trumps. Dummy would come down to the ace-queen of clubs and East would have to blank his king in order to hold the king of spades.

On ABC-TV Competition

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—If star power is still the name of the ratings game in television—and it generally is—then you have to wonder how ABC-TV, smallest of the networks, is ever going to catch up.

For some time now, ABC-TV has had a rather fascinating case of split personality. Part of the time it tries to match up against its two bigger competitors, CBS-TV and NBC-TV, in creating stars on standard shows. But part of the time it also seems to realize it just cannot match up financially—and so tries to be the offbeat network.

If ABC-TV truly wants to be the offbeat network, it seems to me, the best financial and artistic approach might well be to just take itself out of head-on competition with CBS-TV and NBC-TV in the present construction of series, and offer a complete alternative. Junk the standard nightly form in its entirety.

Nothing to Lose

There are those in key positions who say ABC-TV really has nothing to lose. And there are specific plans about how the complete alternative can be done.

This, of course, is radical, and would probably give much pause to top executives at ABC-TV, although one brilliant broadcasting figure is utterly positive that CBS-TV—which he claims has numerous soft spots in its schedule—can be overtaken in the ratings by ABC-TV by such radicalism.

If, however, ABC-TV were to continue trying to match up against CBS-TV and NBC-TV, it might well be best for the smaller network to just stop worrying about prestige for a while—stop worrying about what everyone else, including the press, say—and work at making itself truly solvent.

Wise to Invest

Thus it might be wise to invest some very large sums in several major stars who can have large effect on the ratings, and frankly save the culture for later.

Again, this might not be best that is why there is already for art, but surely the most trade talk referring to ABC TV important thing for ABC TV as half a network. It would not currently be to remain a true but a good thing for the competitor one way or the business, or for the public, if other. And in order to do this it was truly the case, has to divest itself of its split because competition is what personally, because only half of makes video, like all else, it has a chance to succeed, and improve.

Last Weekend for Republican Mayoral Hopefuls

THIS WEEKEND will tell the tale on whether or not the efforts of three (or four) Republican candidates for mayor have been worthwhile. The Democrats, to a lesser degree, will be equally active and perhaps the results of their efforts this weekend may force the Republicans to burn up the phone lines next weekend.

All indications point to a fairly even race between Jim Tyrrell, John Mayone and Cliff Bunting on the Republican side. Judging from conversations with Tyrrell and Mayone, Bunting has little chance. Tyrrell figures on about 33 committeemen and John Ray figures on about 30. Bunting probably has about 25; which adds up to about 90 people committing their vote to one or more of the candidates when only 52 will actually be voting.

John Ray knows the sad fact of political life that everyone says they'll vote for you when you ask them. Tyrrell and Bunting should be learning that on Monday night at convention time.

This making a list and checking it twice business reminds us of the time Jim McCordle was trying to get the city Democratic committee to endorse Bobby Kennedy last year. Jim had his list broken down into yes, no and doubtful but leaning one way or the other. Jim's list eventually proved to be a somewhat futile exercise in basic arithmetic. We would think that Tyrrell would have an edge at this point. For one thing, he's been at it longer than the other two, some three months.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

In addition, Tyrrell has reportedly presented an overall plan for Republican victory, not just his own, which must be music to the ears of Republican committeemen who've been floundering around for the past few years. There's also Tyrrell's iron fist in velvet glove personality. By now he knows the inner workings of the party and such information could prove damaging in the hands of an irate loser.

John Ray is appealing to his popularity with the man in the street and is appealing to those people to appeal in turn to their committeemen on his behalf. John Ray also has a group, presumably of young people, he calls Mayone's Musketeers, who help with mailings and phone calls.

Mayone is also appealing to the committeemen with the simple argument that he deserves the nomination for past services to the party. That will probably sway a few.

Bunting is well connected with the Uptown faction of the party, where the money is. He should prove an excellent compromise for those committeemen who can't decide between Mayone's Musketeers and Tyrrell's talk-shows.

We don't envy Ward Ingalsbe his position as chairman over this weekend.

ON THE DEMOCRATIC side the committeemen will be spared any changes of heart by the mayor since he is out of town for the weekend.

It looks like the Koenig-Gallo ticket will get the nod Wednesday night, with none other than Raymond W. Garraghan putting Koenig's name in nomination.

By all accounts, this should be a tough ticket. Perhaps even tougher than a Garraghan-Gallo ticket.

One reason is that Koenig, who is as sharp as they come politically, cannot be held wholly responsible for any Garraghan foulups. On the other hand, he can point with pride to any Garraghan accomplishments as a fellow Democrat.

Gallo has stayed clear of political infighting (at least publicly) in the past few months, preferring to practice flower power at his shop on Albany Avenue.

This Koenig-Gallo ticket, incidentally, was a god-send to Gallo. Bob was thinking seriously of packing the whole political life in before he talked Koenig into running. Now he stands a good chance of getting reelected with a strong mayoral running mate who is also a close friend and long time political ally. This leaves Bob time to take care of his budding business.

As for the Republicans, it may wind up that none of the three declared candidates get a clear cut mandate. In that case there'll be a breathing spell and a close look at the Democratic ticket which will be nominated Wednesday night. Then we're right back to where we started. Only the decision next weekend will involve a primary.

Strike Ends At SF State After 4 Months

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A disputed agreement has supposedly ended a violent and bitter four-month student strike at San Francisco State College, but it has left several questions unanswered.

Who won? Are the college's troubles really over?

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president, hailed the agreement Friday in a long statement but said he would not get into the question of who won. Gov. Ronald Reagan called it a "victory for the people of California."

Hayakawa, 62, a Japanese-American semantist who took over Nov. 26, said terms of the agreement, worked out by a select committee at his bequest, were not final and were merely recommendations to him. He had not signed it, and an aide said "he doesn't plan to."

On the agreement's proposals for amnesty, Hayakawa said he wanted to wait until April 11 and see if strikers and their supporters behave. The 16,000-student campus will be closed for Easter March 29 to April 6.

"I had a meeting with them March 11," Hayakawa said later in San Diego where he addressed the bar association.

"I told them, 'You claim to be leaders. If you can establish your leadership and keep the campus cool, I will withhold the penalties.'"

Turmoil on the campus has included mass marching, window breaking, firebombing, sabotage and class boycotting.

Hayakawa said 60 per cent of the 678 persons arrested at the college were students. So far, an official in charge of discipline said, 20 students have been temporarily suspended.

Members of the select committee issued a statement last Friday, saying, "We urge his reconsideration of our recommendation concerning ... discipline."

The agreement, not made public until eight hours after

Hayakawa's news conference, makes these stipulations for amnesty:

That students charged only with acts of "nonviolence shall receive a written reprimand," that students charged with "violent acts" receive not more than suspension through the end of next fall's semester, and that students charged with disrupting instruction receive no more than suspension for the remainder of the semester.

The agreement also stipulates that the percentage of applicants for whom the college can waive entrance requirements be raised from 4 per cent to 10 per cent. Strike leaders had demanded that all nonwhite applicants who apply be admitted regardless of qualifications.

It also asks that the state of emergency be lifted immediately. Hayakawa has agreed to give a black studies department 11 professors and to expand a special admissions program for 428 lower-than-average applicants by at least 10 students.

The agreement stipulates 12 black studies professors and 30 for a school of ethnic studies.

"Most of the students I've talked to about his position on amnesty are fairly upset," said Greg Degiere, associate editor of the pro-strike Daily Gater.

Members of the Black Students Union and Third World Liberation Front—who ignited the demonstrations in early November—would not comment.

Calling the situation a "gentlemen's agreement," Dr. Joseph White, dean of undergraduate studies, and a Negro, said the strike leaders are "concerned that they have no assurances" that they won't be suspended or expelled, and that they still "may not have" an influence in setting up the proposed school of ethnic studies.

As to the success of the strike, White said what happened at the college has prompted other colleges to start establishing courses in minority studies.

DECENTRALIZATION PANEL—Criteria for evaluating legislative proposals for school decentralization and community control in New York City, highlighted a panel discussion Friday at Trinity Methodist Church. Robert D. Sherard. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Wurts Street Panel Supports Decentralization of Schools

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Representatives of the Inter-Religious Committee for Community Control at a panel discussion Friday afternoon, urged residents of the area to call upon their Senator and Assemblyman to support any bill designed to decentralize powers now exercised by the New York City Board of Education and transfer such powers to local community boards.

Two speakers from the Committee for Community Control participated in session which was held at the Trinity United Methodist Church on Wurts Street and moderated by the Rev. James Veatch, pastor of the church.

The panel discussion was sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches. The Rev. William A. Studwell, president of the council was co-chairman in charge of the meeting, which was attended by clergymen and residents.

Speakers, who related the background of the school district situation in New York City, were the Rev. Martin Duffy, minister of Metropolitan Mission, United Church of Christ, and Rev. Robert D. Sherard, pastor of the Corona (L. I.) Congregational Church of the United Church of Christ.

The panelists explained that there is a movement underway to have legislation passed in Albany that would decentralize the schools in New York and replace the Central Board of Education with community school boards that would have the power to conduct the school business in the 30 local districts.

"We feel that the local community school board members should be elected by the people within those districts, who realize the problems that confront them in their areas," the Rev. Mr. Duffy said. He pointed out that under the present set-up, the incumbent mayor selects members for the central board, taking the names of candidates from a list provided by the legislature.

The speakers noted that the New York Central school board is a bureaucracy with full powers over the entire city's school system, which has a superintendent for all schools. The district boards are not elected by the people, but delegated by the central board.

The district boards act in an advisory capacity with little or no powers, the panelists commented. "The people in those districts should have the right to elect their school boards, as they have the sensitivity of the needs in their areas," the Rev. Mr. Duffy said.

Monies provided by the Board of Estimate and the City Council in New York, are handled by the central board. If the schools were decentralized the money would come from the same sources, but the funds would be divided on a per capita basis among the 30 existing districts, the speakers said.

"Without decentralization we are headed for disaster in the New York schools," Mr. Duffy commented.

Mr. Shepard explained that at present there are three experimental school districts in New York, including the Ocean Hill-Brownsville district. The community control forces are only asking for the same kind of citizen control over teachers contracts, discipline, and budgets which the rest of the state takes for granted, the speaker said.

"The community forces ask for localized control, the same powers that school districts upstate already have with the exception of Buffalo," he commented.

The speakers emphasized that election of community school boards must be free from the possibilities of political manipulation, and the districts should be conducted by local boards under procedures established in accordance with the State Education Law.

The meeting was informative and during the session the audience was permitted to ask questions, which were answered by the speakers. The questions related to the school situation and the percentages of whites, Negroes and Puerto Ricans now employed in the New York school system.

Lawyer Convinced Of Ray's Innocence In Killing of King

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray's new lawyer arrived today to visit Ray at the state prison and said he had new information which convinced him that Ray did not assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

J. B. Stoner, a Savannah, Ga., attorney long associated with the Ku Klux Klan, said he had been retained by Ray in his effort to win a new trial.

Warden Lake Thompson of the Tennessee State Penitentiary said he had not been contacted by Stoner but that the attorney would have no trouble seeing Ray if the prisoner wished it.

Ray pleaded guilty March 10 to a first-degree murder charge that he shot King in Memphis last April 4. Ray was brought here the next day to begin a 99-year prison sentence.

In Chattanooga Friday night, Stoner, 44, said he would be aided in the case by a Chattanooga lawyer, Robert W. Hill.

"I have some independent information about the Ray case from Memphis," Stoner said. "And from the information I have, I believe it would have been impossible for Ray to have been guilty of having shot King."

Stoner said he thought Ray had been pressured into entering the guilty plea because of national publicity which made it impossible for Ray to get a fair trial.

"Certain magazines are part of a conspiracy to libel Ray and deny him a free trial," Stoner said. "This pressured him into pleading guilty."

Stoner's entry into the case was announced by Edward R. Fields, director of the militantly segregationist National States Rights party, who said Ray first contacted Stoner after his arrest in London last year.

Stoner, an NSRP attorney whose office is located in the party's headquarters in Savannah, Ga., ran for vice president under the party's banner in 1964.

J. B. STONER

nah, Ga., ran for vice president under the party's banner in 1964.

Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle Jr. of Memphis, who presided in the Ray case, disclosed Wednesday that Ray had written him saying he wanted to withdraw the guilty plea and stand trial.

Battle said Ray also wrote that he had fired his attorney, Tennessee.

Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex. Stoner is Ray's third lawyer. He earlier had dismissed Arthur Hanes, a former Birmingham, Ala., lawyer.

The 99-year prison sentence was prearranged by the state and Foreman, who said he never had hopes of anything more than saving Ray's life.

The sentence prevents Ray from seeking parole for 30 years. Under a life sentence, he would have been eligible for parole in 13 years.

Stoner grew up on a Walker County, Ga., farm just outside Chattanooga, Tenn. Since boyhood he had been involved in Ku Klux Klan.

At 16, Stoner was an organizer and an officer of a Chattanooga Klan and was once shown as the kleeagle of Tennessee. He has called himself imperial wizard of the Christian Knights of the Klan and published a Klan newspaper in Louisville, Ky., and Atlanta.

In 1952, Stoner announced formation of the Christian Anti-Jewish party and urged deportation of Jews and confiscation of their property for distribution to "Christian Americans." The same year he polled 934 votes as a candidate for Congress in the 3rd Congressional District of Tennessee.

Cautious Optimism On Ike's Condition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, his heart bearing the burden of another congestive heart failure, is in favorable condition and resting comfortably, according to the latest medical bulletin from Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

It was learned Friday that the 78-year-old general of the Army suffered a congestive heart failure last Saturday, a condition described as one in which the heart fails to pump enough blood. Doctors said it "may well have" lessened his reserve strength.

During the week Mamie Eisenhower remarked to friends that her husband has "some good days and some bad ones." She said that last Saturday was particularly bad, and "I didn't take my clothes off for 30 hours."

Eisenhower, one of the nation's three living ex-presidents, suffered his fourth heart attack April 29 in Southern California. He was brought back to Walter Reed, just a few miles north of the White House where he lived from 1952 to 1961, and since has suffered his fifth, sixth and seventh heart attacks.

He underwent surgery Feb. 23 to relieve an acute intestinal block and caught hypostatic pneumonia a few days later.

Maj. George H. Foster, official spokesman at Walter Reed, said Eisenhower during his latest spell "manifested symptoms of congestive heart failure such as he has done on occasions in the past."

"There has been no evidence of further infarctions or dangerous irregularities of the heart's action," Foster said. "The general's response to treatment for heart failure has been favorable but slow."

"This indicates that he may well have less reserve strength than previously. However, his physicians report that his condition is favorable. He is resting comfortably and is in good spirits," Foster said.

Wagner Considering Another Mayoral Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Mayor Robert F. Wagner, backed by promises of plentiful campaign funds is considering the appeals of friends to run again for mayor.

Wagner said Friday night that supporters had assured him "enough money to win the primary" contest for the Democratic nomination. One report placed the figure at a minimum of $1 million.

There are already five declared candidates for the Democratic nomination and at least that many more are expected to announce their bids before April 1.

United States two weeks ago after serving as U.S. ambassador to Spain, declined to seek a fourth term as mayor in 1965. "Twelve years in the office are enough for any man," he said then.

He also cited personal considerations, including a lack of time to spend with his sons. His first wife, Susan, had died only a few months before, and he was not yet remarried.

Now, Wagner said, the family situation "had changed" and he decided to take another look at it. He said his second wife, the former Barbara Cavanagh, "wants anything for me that I want."

Paltz Choral Clinic

A highly musical weekend is coming up on the State University College campus at New Paltz. The 20th Annual Choral Clinic, an undertaking that has earned its share of kudos, will take over the campus for two days and culminate in a public concert Saturday evening, March 29, at 8 p.m. in McKenna Theater at the college.

This year's Clinic will feature 150 carefully chosen student singers from eastern New York and Long Island high schools. They'll arrive at Paltz Friday morning and begin a strenuous two-day rehearsal schedule combining all the schools represented into one large chorus.

Guest conductor for the 1969 Clinic will be Robert Page, Professor of Music and Director of Choral Activities at Temple University. Page has been widely acclaimed for a unique method of instructing youngsters interested in learning piano artistry. He has also appeared as guest conductor with the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Albuquerque Symphony.

The Paltz concert will be sponsored by Mu Sigma Epsilon, the college music fraternity, and is open to the public without charge. Among the works to be performed by the large chorus: Rock-a My Soul in the Bosom of Abraham, There's a City Called Heaven (both arranged by Page), Benjamin Britten's "Choral Dances from Gloriana," Cherubini's "Requiem Mass in C minor," and "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come," by Williamson. Accompanying the chorus will be the New Paltz Faculty Chamber Orchestra.

A WORK FROM THE LOCKSPEISER COLLECTION OF RELIEFS

A Lockspeiser Show

Woodstock artist Eleanore Lockspeiser will have a one-woman show of her latest work at New York's Phoenix Gallery next month. The show opens at the Manhattan gallery on Madison Avenue Tuesday, April 1, with a reception from 5 to 8 p.m. The exhibit will feature work from her collection of reliefs, painted and unpainted, and will be on view through April 19.

The unique Lockspeiser style has been on display previously at solo shows in many New York galleries, including the Feigl and Phoenix and the Wittenborn Etching Show. The artist has also exhibited in the Whitney Annual, Los Angeles Fine Arts Museum, Jewish Museum First International Show, Riverside Museum, Brooklyn Society of Artists, Audubon Society, and Woodstock Art Association. Her work is included in the Museum of Modern Art Lending Service and, abroad, she has exhibited in England with London Group and Redfern Gallery.

Until now, her one-woman shows have been mostly of oils, although she has exhibited her water colors and etchings alone. Now she is fascinated with her work in the medium of relief, since she began using material for reliefs in a search for new painting ideas during an exhibit of oils in the spring of 1968. She became so fascinated by what that search led to that she forgot the search entirely; began producing a collection of reliefs. Completing the series, she questioned her intense involvement; realized why her absorption had been so complete. For years, she says, she had had a strong longing to paint on rough textured wall. For her, the reliefs meant making her own small walls!

A Kick-Off Concert

Highly successfully both artistically and financially was the recent kick-off concert by Mid-Hudson Madrigal Singers. The concert, by invitation only, took place on a Sunday afternoon earlier this month; was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Meyer of Woodstock, who offered their attractive home on California Quarry Road as the perfect stage for the performance by the Singers.

And the surroundings provided the proper backdrop for the exciting, seldom available and superb singing of the area choir. Artists and businessmen alike were in attendance; enjoyed the program and its attendant party to the fullest. A magnificent view of the Catskills through wide windows and a weather-perfect day, augmented by the excellent music, champagne punch and refreshments, lent the proper note of elegance to put the audience in a receptive frame of mind to enjoy the concert.

With director Beatrice Bright conducting with competence and flair, and Karen Jacobs providing piano accompaniment, the Madrigalists performed music by such composers as Gabrielli, Purcell, Wilbye, Orlando de Lasso, and Hindemith. Applause was loud and long for the spirited interpretations by the choir.

The public concerts are slated this spring by the Madrigal Singers. The kick-off concert will be repeated Saturday, March 29 at the Woodstock Artists Association. On Saturday, April 26, the Singers will perform at the Church of Holy Cross in Kingston. At both concerts, Bill Skilling will appear as guest performer, reading poetry to the musical background.

'Fruit' of the Maple: How Sweet It Is!

17—THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, MAR. 22, 1969

JUST AS THE PIONEERS did, Franklin Rider empties maple harvest from tin pail that had been attached to soft maple tree on Accord sugar bush run by Rider and his father.

TRACTORS HAVE REPLACED the oxen and horse-drawn carts and sleds of yore, used to transport unrefined maple sap to processing plant. Here, Franklin Rider performs another step in the ritual of turning sap into syrup as he empties pail into larger container on tractor for easier transportation.

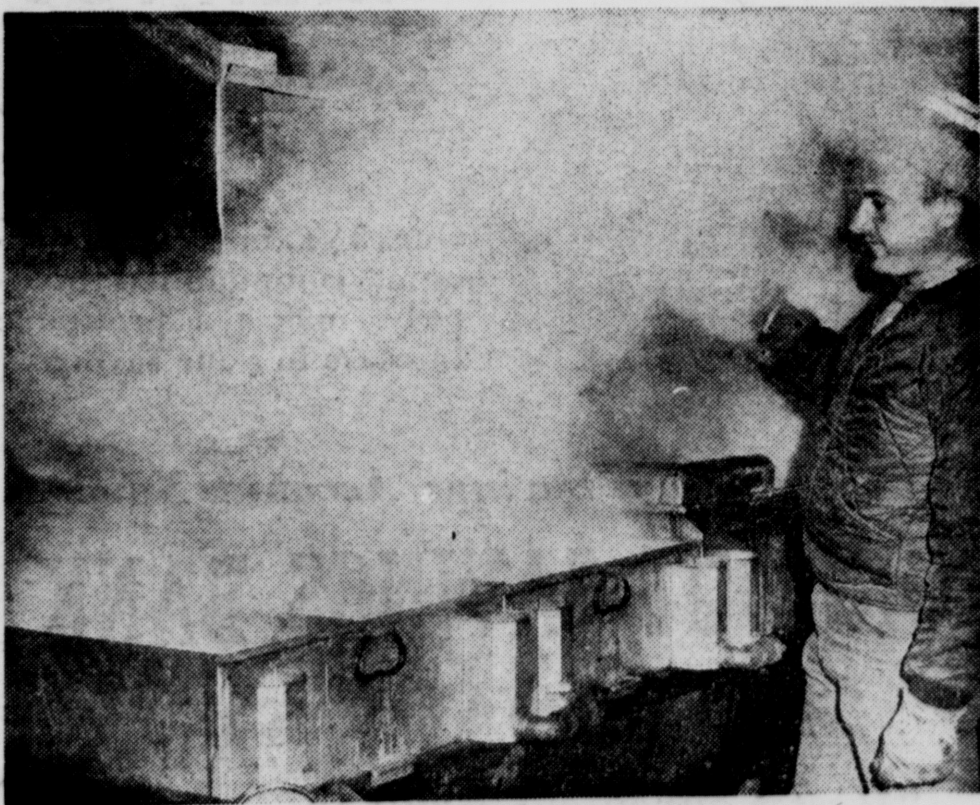

Cold nights and warm days are what makes the sugarbush flourish. This is not only a winning combination for an approach to spring but the necessary catalyst for a successful maple sap run.

Since the time of the Indians, the spring "fruit" of the soft maple has satisfied the sweet tooth of America. In the days of the early settlers, the sole sugar source was from the spreading maple.

Many of the early and time-honored methods of harvest and processing remain an early spring ritual throughout the northeast. Although the Rondout Valley and indeed the Mid-Hudson are not considered major maple producing sections of the leader, New York State, there are operations afoot which hark back to the days of old.

SMOKE RISES from the evaporating vats which rid the product of all the excess moisture. In other words, it REALLY does the job of refining it down to syrup. If the Riders no longer boil the sap over open fires, the vats used are as huge as ever and the season runs the same length of time (usually three weeks starting in mid-March) as it did in the days of the Indians.

WHEN THE DRYING OFF process from the evaporating vats takes place, the temperature must be 219 degrees Fahrenheit. Following this most necessary step, the product goes to the finishing plant where the temperature is again brought up to the same point as before. (All photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines)

THE CANTERBURY WOODWIND QUINTET of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic (L-R) James Walker, flute, Darrel Randall, oboe, J. Richard Webb, French horn, John Rahn, bassoon and James Gilmore, clarinet, performed recently at an assembly at Reginald R. Bennett Elementary School, Boiceville. Members of the quintet gave a demonstration of the woodwind instruments and played selections by Haydn, Arnold, Ibert, Beethoven and Relcha. The concert was one of a series of cultural arts programs scheduled at the school during the year. The next program, to be held this spring, will feature the After-Dinner Opera Company.

'Mary, Mary' Opens

Sparkling comedy is on the bill of fare down at Cornwall-on-Hudson's Playhouse on the Hudson currently. Jean Kerr's "Mary, Mary" has opened at the area dinner-theater and, as directed by Maureen Kelly, it stars pretty Robin Douglas in the role of Mary, the vivacious ex-wife of publisher Bob McKellaway, played by Jerry Cannon.

In the supporting cast are John Calvin as Dirk Winston, the movie star who re-charts the course of Bob and Mary's lives; Madeline Carroll as Tiffany and Richards, the young socialite; and Mel Johnson as Oscar Nelson, the devoted tax lawyer.

Jean Kerr's hilariously funny plot revolves around the happenings of one "found weekend" when Mary and Bob are brought together unexpectedly by their lawyer friend. A lot of tense proceedings follow, sparked by the appearance of a movie idol with big eyes for Mary and the imminent marriage of Bob to Tiffany. Adding to the action are the prospect of financial shipwreck, a bottle of sleeping pills and a pair of blue pajamas, all of which serve as catalysts in the explosive situation in which the marriage of true minds admits impediments.

"Mary, Mary" is the second show of the current season at the area Playhouse; follows the successful run of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." The comedy is running for three weeks, Friday and Saturday nights only. Friday performances take place at the Garrison Inn, Garrison, and Saturday presentations are at the Playhouse. Reservations for both dinner and the show, or for the show only, are available by phoning 534-8823.

Tootin' Tempo's Horn

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Speaking personally, as editor of TEMPO, we never think of our efforts as particularly "egghead." True, we deal with art and music and culture, but we try to keep it readable, interesting and lively.

We've known for months that it pays to advertise in TEMPO. Restaurant owners tell us ads in our magazine attract diners regularly. Those who have advertised entertainment or historical events have called to say they've been pleased with response.

Still, we've always contended Tempo's fans included just as many housewives and their husbands as bankers, professors and artists. Now we're sure we were right. Last Saturday, a major appliance and TV firm in Kingston scheduled an ad in TEMPO to call attention to a "scratch and dent" sale on major appliances. Proprietor Bill Lounsbury was bowled over by the response. He said customers flocked to his store on Albany Avenue Extension at the By-Pass and carried home any number of washers, refrigerator-freezers, air conditioners, ranges, dishwashers and TV sets.

What really impressed Lounsbury was the fact that an ad placed on Saturday could draw so overwhelmingly on the following Monday morning.

As editor of TEMPO, readers will pardon us for being particularly pleased. We appreciate it when people call and write that article we've authored have been credited with increasing attendance at concerts, other entertainment events and pageants threefold. But we appreciate it, too, when something just as nice happens to our advertisers, who support our editorial work with their patronage. If TEMPO can sell a washer two days after it's been advertised, as well as a stage offering or movie, our job becomes more pleasurable.

INDIAN DANCER MANJUSRI CHAKI-SIRCAR

For You: Ballet, Indian Dance

Two special eight-week dance courses, Ballet for Adults, and India's Life and Culture Through Her Dance, are being offered to Mid-Hudson area residents, beginning shortly at State University College, New Paltz.

The non-credit courses are financed through a $20 tuition fee by the college's Center for Continuing Education as part of its efforts to provide the community with educational opportunities for enjoyment as well as self-improvement.

Fred de Mayo, a graduate actor of Abbe Theater and currently director and choreographer with the Newburgh Ballet Guild, will teach the ballet course Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 beginning March 24. The course will introduce ballet as an art form with class sessions devoted to warmup exercises, movements, demonstrations, and discussions.

India's Life and Culture Through Her Dance will be taught by Mrs. Manjusri Chaki-Sircar, professional dancer and lecturer from Calcutta. The course will be given Wednesdays from 7 to 9:40 p.m. beginning March 26. Students will participate in a dance workshop and attend lecture-demonstrations as part of the course. The artist has lectured and performed at many universities in the United States, Europe, and Africa as well as in her native India.

Distilling the Essence of Growth

A slender little tome, entitled "Stairway to Manhood" has been added to the bookshelves of more than one Ulster County residents in recent months. The book is a collection of poems authored by Kingston resident, George R. Stoutenburgh, and published by Carlton Press, of New York City.

Many readers find the poems delightful and moving, and Stoutenburgh says he has attempted to "distill the very essence of the experience of growing up." His poetry is also an effort to capture the meaning of maturity.

In their totality, the poems portray the common events in the life of all boys that shape their character, such as picking up toys, the lesson of the frog, school punishment, the death of a dog, breaking a window, experiencing beauty, sportsmanship, scouting, and first puppy love. Events in a boy's older life such as temptations, his first car, a job, service in the army and, finally, a sense of adult love and responsibility are also included. Stoutenburgh's poetry succeeds, some readers feel, because his verse is imaginative and the slim volume translates into meaningful terms the process by which a responsible, mature and sensitive adult is George R. Stoutenburgh is a man reaches maturity through native as well as a resident of following the right path." Having worked with boys, he feels strongly about them; says that, if given the opportunity by adults, they will all turn out "right."

"Stairway To Manhood" is his first published work, and he says of it: "I have tried to poetically outline the growing up process—by which a

YOUR SHIELD OF SECURITY

BOBBIE GENTRY, a nobody from nowhere a couple of years ago, has been an international star since recording "Ode to Billie Joe" in 1967. This week she helped make The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour an excellent offering by guesting with Glen, singing "Peaceful" and "Morning Glory."

Television

Good grief, Dating Game will still be on next year. If you REALLY enjoy watching the show, you should REALLY be happy about the news. As for us, we can hardly wait to switch the dial to something else.

And wondering if The Lawrence Welk Show will be around for a while longer is like asking if the Grand Canyon will still be with us next season. Welk will not only be as bubbly as ever on TV next year but, like the Grand Canyon, will be around much, much longer.

For those of you who suffered broken hearts at the news that The Ghost and Mrs. Muir will be taken off the air, the series has had a reprieve. Dropped by NBC for next season, it was bought by ABC as one of its offerings for the fall.

Jim Nabors will have a totally different kind of show next year. Bowing out of Gomer Pyle, he'll star in a variety show, titled Friends and Nabors, to be aired over CBS, starting next season.

RANDOM THOUGHTS ON RECENT VIEWING:

The first part of 21st Century's "What Are We Doing to Our World?" gets our vote as the best program this season for the series. It delved into the ecological problems modern man has been creating for himself and those to follow. Many scientists worry about the acute survival of the civilized world because of natural imbalances being created by advanced industrial techniques. Terrifying were the program's demonstrations of how air, water and food are being polluted.

We're not much on country-western music, having had more than an ample dosage of such fare during a Southern childhood. But we have to admit we did enjoy the Public Broadcast Laboratory's "Johnny Cash" on Channel 17 this week. Perhaps we liked it for nostalgic reasons only, but we feel strongly, too, that it was an excellent film portrait of the singer who is at the crest of the country music revival.

Of unusual interest, too, was The First Americans, the first SERGIO MENDES and his Brasil '66 company are much in the debt of Herb Alpert, who discovered and promoted them on records. Mendes and Co. lilted through some of their Supraslick versions on the Fred Astaire Show recently on NBC-TV; have been riding along on the record charts of late with their lyrical rendition of "Scarborough Fair." They'll show up on TV again soon on April 17 when they help Bob Hope end his current season with his last special of the year.

in a new series of science studies on NBC. It centered on the theory that the first men to touch American soil came from Asia by a land bridge over the Bering Strait, from Siberia to Alaska. Totally fascinating fare that took viewers back 20,000 years in time.

Let's Sketch Outdoors in April

A thought for spring: why not spend the next 10, sunny and warm Wednesday mornings sketching and painting outdoors? You can if you join the adult class in drawing and watercolor painting to be held at the Kingston Children's Library on Broadway for the next two-and-a-half months. The class will run for 10 weeks, starting March 26 and will continue each Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Sessions will be taught by Mrs. Maxine Wingate of Bearsville, who studied drawing at the Art Students League of New York, and watercolor painting from that internationally renowned artist, Doug Kingman.

Mrs. Wingate feels the beginner will find her direct, simplified approach to watercolor easy to learn, and a skill that will bring future pleasure.

Mrs. Wingate, who is currently exhibiting one of her paintings at Woodstock's Rondout National Bank, will obtain all basic supplies as a convenience to students, who will later meet the cost. Or she will refer prospective students to art supply stores in the area.

For further information, those interested should call Mrs. Markle at the Kingston Children's Library, 331-0507, between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m., or contact Mrs. Wingate at 679-6079.

Forced Switch

HELSINKI (UPI) — "The Kremlin Letter," a spy movie based on a book by Noel Dehm, will be filmed here instead of in Moscow because Soviet authorities don't approve of the story. In fact, a Soviet protest caused the company to cancel plans to erect a fiberglass statue of Lenin to add authenticity to the scenery.

Real Type Casting

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Mary Ann Mobley (former Miss America) and her husband, Gary Collins, will play man and wife in a segment of NBC-TV's "Ironside" which stars Raymond Burr.

STAMPS

A 6-CENT POSTAGE STAMP to be issued May 17 in Memphis, Tenn., will honor the legendary Negro jazzman, W. C. Handy. Handy immortalized Memphis with such compositions as "The Memphis Blues" and "The Beal Street Blues." Stamp was designed by Bernice Kochan, of Cleveland, Ohio; combines purple, light red and light blue for a jazzy effect. Against a purple background is Handy, horn at his lips, in pink. The denomination "6c," upper right, is blue, as is "W. C. Handy," lower left. Beneath this, in white, is "Father of the Blues." Vertical right, purple on white, appears "United States." The Apollo 8 Mission, which received world-wide tribute for its trip around the moon, will be honored on a new six-cent U.S. stamp scheduled for issuance on May 5. That's the anniversary date of the first U.S. manned suborbital space flight in 1961 by Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr.

The design and place of first-day sale will be announced soon.

Throughout the years the Post Office Department has issued postage stamps marking significant moments and honoring great personages, but few events have captured the imagination and acclaim as have the feats of the Apollo 8 Mission. Their deserved recognition on a new stamp is most welcome.

Another philatelic recognition well deserved is the new six-cent U.S. stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the American Legion just issued in Washington, D. C.

The design features an eagle clutching an olive branch. This particular eagle is adapted from the Great Seal of the United States. At the top of the stamp are the words "American Legion." Beside the eagle's wing is "50 years." Beneath the olive branch is the phrase "Veterans as Citizens."

The world-famous Lars Amundsen collection of classic European, Asian and South American stamps was sold in London last month at the auction rooms of Stanley Gibbons Ltd. This was the second of four parts of the Amundsen collection.

One of the items for sale was the famous "Pack Strip" of Brazil which, as expected, brought more than $25,000.

Lars Amundsen is the sole surviving male relative of the late Antarctic explorer Roald Amundsen.

When all four parts of the collection are sold, it is expected to realize more than $1 million.

DID YOU KNOW ... that the United Nations Postal Administration has placed a service charge of five cents per cover for all first-day covers, starting with the issue for the U.N. Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR) last month ... that Queen Elizabeth II of England will officially open the National Postal Museum at London's chief post office. This will be the first visit of a reigning sov-eign to the post office since King Edward VII laid the foundation in 1905 ... that the Soviet Union has just issued a stamp bearing a portrait of Maj. Gen. Beregovoi for the Soyuz-3 space flight.

Scenes of Berlin a century ago—a blacksmith repairing a wheel, a horse trolley driver with top hat and cloak, strollers in front of the Brandenburg Gate—will be featured in lithograph form on a new series of eight stamps by the postal department of West Berlin. The designs are taken from the works of eminent 19th century painters, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

One stamp shows a shoemaker's apprentice and women in bonnets, taken from the work of Franz Kruger. C. W. Aller's designs depict a newspaper vendor in front of the Berlin Exchange, the driver of the horse trolley between Potsdam Bridge and the Rosenthal Gate. A drawing by Heinrich Zille illustrates a tired cabdriver and mare in front of the Silesian Railroad Station.

The stamps, entitled "Berliners of the 19th Century," will be issued later this year and will be available at your local stamp store or dealer.

Saturday Review Editor at DCC

John Ciardi, poetry editor of "The Saturday Review," spoke at Dutchess Community College last week in place of author-poet-professor Mark Van Doren. Van Doren, who suffered a heart attack just prior to his scheduled appearance at DCC, is now hospitalized.

"Literature and Society" was Ciardi's topic in talks to students and faculty at an afternoon lecture and to the general public in an evening program. The night presentation was free of charge and was offered in the Dutchess Hall Theatre.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Wayne Newton has signed to make his American movie debut in "80 Steps to Jonah."

'Fruit' of the Maple: How Sweet It Is!

midst of just such rites on Upper Whitfield Road, Accord. The maple syrup manufacturing started with Franklin's uncle many years ago and was assumed by the elder Rider in 1934. In recent years, Franklin has been in charge of the operation, servicing local customers of long standing.

Essentially the tried and true methods of maple syrup production are employed by the Riders. About one half of the harvest is carried out with hooded tin pails attached to the succulent trees. More modern methods of plastic tubing from tree to holding tanks are used where gravity feed is feasible. There are 500 taps over a two mile area in the Rider sugar-bush.

No longer do oxen or horses cart the unrefined product to the processing plant over corn snow and muddy trail. Now the tractor and trailer do the transportation bit.

The method of refinement remains basically the same through the years. Though the sap is piped into the shed through plastic hoses, the process of sap to syrup is still one of time and patience. There is no modern method of speeding the transition.

It takes one hour to make a gallon of pancake topping from the raw sap and the ratio is 40 gallons boiled down to produce that amount of the real maple syrup. Last year the Riders produced 100 gallons of the finished product for local customers and that's a lot of boiling.

Processing entails a three-stage evaporation vat plus the finishing pan where the sweetness and light are refined to the fancy and extra-fancy quality expected by customers of long standing.

The dregs or dark syrup is shipped to a distribution point at Bainbridge where through a co-op it is channeled to tobacco manufacturers seeking a "maple flavor" and to the makers of simulated maple syrup products. A good share of the Bainbridge co-op gleanings go to Vermont which makes the claim of being the maple state but has to borrow from New York for proof of the pudding.

Like most fruits of the field, the maple sap to syrup process is entirely reliant on the weather. A good crop depends on the combination of night time lows in the 20's and a quick warming trend during the daylight hours to stimulate the flow of sap. A week or so ago, operations were brought to a standstill by persistent cold, night and day.

The methods may be updated with plastic tubing and motorized transportation. Electric beaters may replace the steady hand of the constant stirrer bent on making maple cream or sugar. Though semi-automated operations may enter the field of maple products, there is no replacement for the basic ingredients of weather and patience in achieving the perennial spring-time treat which spells "ummm good" in American. LEARNING THE SECRET OF LIFE as interpreted by the great Grindl the Guru (Marlon Brando) is Candy (Ewa Aulin) in a scene from the film, "Candy," which many said could never be made into a movie. But made it was and it's now holding forth for a second straight week at Walter Reade's Mayfair Theatre here.

MOVIES

Candy

Candy is dandy but likker is not quicker in this movie that takes a 17-year-old blonde Bit 'O Honey (Ewa Aulin) and turns her into Nestle's Crunch via a seplotitious plot.

When an old Walnetto of a poet (Richard Burton) tries to melt down this luscious lollipop with booze, she slips through his Butterfingers and those of his licorice chauffeur (Sugar Ray Robinson). Not so safe at home, our pretty bon bon gets into the fudge all over again when Daddy's Mexican gardener (Ringo Starr) tries his luck with Tootsie Roll. When Daddy (John Astin) arrives on the scene, he's Good and Plenty mad—so mad he blows his marshmallow mind and has to be rushed to the hospital by plane for brain surgery.

There's a few more Chuckles in store when a patriotic General (not Hershey and not Clark, but Walter Matthau) falls for Candy's Charms and pursues her around the plane. Daddy's Life Savers turn out to be two nougatty doctors (played by James Coburn and John Huston) who seem more interested in a Turkish Taffy pull with Candy than in saving old Dad's upper story from turning into peanut brittle.

A Guru, Too

Our resourceful Baby Ruth escapes their clutches only to fall into the hands of a Hunchback (Charles Aznavour) with a bad case of the Snickers. Mounds of film footage later, a jelly beaned Guru named Grindl (Marlon Brando) is so taken with Candy, he, too, tries to lure her down the Milky Way, but not before he's taught her all the pralines that go into the secret of living.

And M&M and M&M and M&M&M it goes, until you'd give an Almond Joy to see the vanilla divinity that's Candy married off to the biggest gumdrop in town, if it would just put an end to all that nonsense up there on the screen.

Don't bet your last dinner mint on it, though, 'cause the film makers have a few more caramels to dip before it's over. As fast as you can say $100,000 Bar, Candy's being pinned to the wall by a Hermit who might have come right out of the pages of Oh Henry. When a sudden rain storm washes away his dirt, it ain't the Lemon Drop Kid who's got Candy up against the wall—it's Daddy.

At movie's end, Candy is heading for her own Mars Bar in the sky; ascending heavenward in a shimmer of white. As entertainment, "Candy" is a real sour ball, but somebody out there's got a sweet tooth for this sugar-coated pill because it's been held over for a second week at the Mayfair Theatre here.

Les Biches

Oh, look, look. See "Les Biches." It is a movie about

JACQUELINE SASSARD, STEPHANE AUDRAN and Louis Trintignant portray a wife, a lesbian and an architect in "LES BICHES," the Claude Chabrol movie now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. It's being touted as the film that makes "Therese and Isabel" look tame.

KEIR DULLEA is cast as an astronaut who manages to disarm a mutinous computer-pilot named Hal in "2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY." The film, about a journey to Jupiter in the next century, is one of the most gorgeously colored and mounted science-fiction adventures ever presented; runs for more than 2½ hours and will bring it stunning photography and dazzling visual happenings to the screen of Walter Reade's Mayfair Theatre here beginning March 26.

lesbians. It is about homosexuals. Oh, see the movie.

Yes, we see the movie. It is about lesbians. It is about homosexuals. Lots of movies are these days.

But see, see, one lesbian is very rich. She can take the other to Saint Tropez. And they can have lots of fun. Fun, fun, fun.

Yes, they can have fun. They can have lots of fun. They can have a real deviate Dolce Vita.

But it is different. See the difference. See, there are homosexuals in Saint Tropez, too. They can all live together in a menage and have fun. Fun, fun, fun. See them having fun sleeping together?

Yes, we see them having fun. We see them sleeping together. You are right. It is different. But it is not very interesting to a heterosexual.

But it should be. It should be very interesting. You will learn that "Les biches" means "The Does." You will learn that the poor lesbian earns her living chalking does on the sidewalks of Paris.

Who Needs It?

Yes, we will learn that. But that is not very interesting either. It is not any more interesting than seeing all of them sleeping together.

Oh, look, see, see. Oh, oh, oh. The homosexual who is an architect is sleeping with the doe drawer. Now he is sleeping with the rich lesbian. Isn't that strange? Isn't that very strange?

Oh, oh, it is not so strange. It happens all the time in movies about lesbians and homosexuals. It is called promiscuity.

Oh, why, why do you say that? Oh, funny, funny you. Oh, oh, oh.

We can say it. We can say it because we have seen lots of movies lately about unrequited lesbian love and promiscuous homosexual affairs.

Run, run. Run to the movie in Woodstock. Look and see. You will understand the subculture of people who are not normal. You will understand their sickness. You will see how mixed-up deviates are.

Oh, yes, we will look and see. See, see the poor lesbian. She is sick, sick, sick. She is so sick she thinks her lovers are parental figures. Sometimes she seems almost as normal as Jackie or Happy or Oona.

Very Freudian

But see, see the Freudian implications. Oh, oh, it is all very Freudian and traumatic.

Run, run, oh, run when you say that. We are not interested at all.

Oh, oh, you are one of those awful people who think homosexuals should be discreet and invisible. You are a patronizing proselytizer.

Oh, oh, we quit. You do not play fair at all. It is no fair using five syllable words.

Come, come. Come and see. Do not quit. The movie is by Claude Chabrol. See, see, it is his best movie since "The Cousins."

We see. It is a sort of deviate drawing-room-comedy. But we do not like drawing-room-comedies. No, no, we do not like Rock Hudson and Doris Day in them. We do not like David Niven and Deborah Kerr in them. We do not like lesbians and homosexuals in them. They are big bores.

Oh, look. Look again. One lesbian is rich. One is a waif. Both homosexuals are vicious. It is a real Freudian Finnegans Wake.

Oh, oh, we still do not like it. There are too many movies about lesbians and homosexuals. Why, why? We would rather see a western. We would rather see a mystery. We do not like mushy love stories—even those with straight people in them. We do not like to feel like a peeping Tom. It is too queer. It is too odd. We do not like it all.

Other Choices

UPTIGHT. If you feel like driving across the river to Hyde Park to see the story of a poor frustrated Negro caught in a changing world, "Uptight" at the Roosevelt Theatre in that Dutchess County community might appeal to you. Boosted by its producers as potent and powerful drama, it doesn't quite come across as the frank, uninhibited look at Black America today it is supposed to be. If this is an attempt to show the problems blacks are trying to solve, it's a pretty unsuccessful attempt. It's set in Cleveland in the spring of 1968, but it's really just a recasting with Negroes of "The Informer," the Irish rebellion movie that won an Oscar many long years ago. Julian Mayfield, who has the lead this time around, is very good—but the script does him in.

CHARLY. A trip to Poughkeepsie's Juliet Theatre is well worth the drive. "Charly" is now in its fifth week there, and small wonder! It's an unusual movie about experimental brain surgery changing a mentally retarded young man into a brilliant adult confronted with new and serious problems. Cliff Robertson is Charly, a bumble bakery worker who becomes a thoughtful, brilliant man after submitting to surgery. But his former problems are replaced by serious new ones and Robertson gives a fine performance to illuminate the screen with sensitivity.

RACHEL, RACHEL. On a double bill at Kingston's Community Theatre currently is this film which has been nominated for several Oscars this year. It boasts Joanne Woodward in a sensitive portrayal of a 35-year-old school teacher, who gropes her way out of self-imposed loneliness and fear of life into maturity. Although it has been around before, it's good enough to see twice, primarily because of Miss Woodward's remarkable performance and the sympathetic direction of her husband Paul Newman in his first stint as actor-turned-director. Nature's Spirits: A Far-Out Sextet

PHOTOGRAPHER IS REFLECTED in shades worn by straw-hatted Michael Berardi, founder and leader of NATURE'S SPIRITS, a swinging new musical group in this area. Berardi does his thing on guitar and clarinet; currently works out of Woodstock where he settled in after summering at Group 212.

AT COLUMBIA RECORDING SESSION, Steven Tintweiss (in center with bass) is flanked by other musicians and melange of microphones, wires and electronic equipment. Tintweiss, who also plays the melodica, will be featured with NATURE'S SPIRITS at a New Paltz concert this Sunday.

The rocking policy of the Academy Theatre in New Paltz has paved the way for a Sunday Concert that should have appeal to lovers of music throughout Ulster County. The theatre is presenting live entertainment instead of the usual film fare tomorrow, March 23, at 3 p. m. On stage will be a musical group that boasts a variety of talents criss-crossing jazz and avant-garde fields.

"Nature's Spirits" is the name of the aggregation and it includes six musicians, most of whom are equally adept on more than one instrument. There's Michael Berardi on guitar and clarinet; Earl Cross on trumpet, flugelhorn, E flat alto horn and flutes; and Juma handling African percussion, soprano saxophone and flutes. Bass and melodica are the domains of Steven Tintweiss; and Richard Youngstein and Randy Kaye make up the remainder of the group on bass and percussion respectively.

The sextet's credits read like a page out of Downbeat. Percussionist Randy Kaye has played with Duke Ellington, and many musicians of a younger generation, including the highly acclaimed Roswell Rudd. Presently a member of the David Izenzon/Perry Robinson Uni-Trio, he also composes and arranges. He studied with Aaron Copland, one of the greatest composers and conductors of our time. From the classical Copland to the rockin' FUGS posed no problem for Kaye. He wrote and arranged most of the music for the FUGS' latest Reprise album (still to be released) and also plays drums for the recording.

Bass player Richard Youngstein is a degree holder from the University of Missouri and Hunter College. His M.A. has kept him teaching music in East Bronx schools in recent years, but he has also found time to work with such groups as those of Bill Dixon, Robin Kenyatta, Lee Konitz, Roswell Rudd, Bob Pozar and many others.

Earl Cross is a total musician who came up the river from St. Louis, led his own quintet out west before heading east two years ago. He plays trumpet, E flat alto horn, flugelhorn and flutes equally well; has worked with Sun Ra and His Solar/Nature Arkestra, the Noah Howard Ensemble, Sonny Simmons Depth Probers, Burton Green Quartet and many other "avant-garde" groups. He has recorded for black poet LeRoi Jones' Company in Newark and New York's Douglas records.

Very much a New Jazz player is Steven Tintweiss, who has lent his bass and melodica talents to such groups as those headed by Burton Green, Frank Wright and the Jazz Composers Orchestra over the past five years. He has recorded with both Green and Wright and can be heard on numerous ESP and Columbia records. His own Purple Why has appeared in many concerts in Manhattan over the past two years, and he is also a composer, arranger and singer.

An exciting and original musician is Juma, who played African percussion, soprano sax and flutes with most of the "free music" players on the West Coast before coming to New York two years ago. He's been heard with Albert and Don Ayler, Pharoah Sanders, Noah Howard and Sonny Simmons, with whom he recently made a record.

As for guitarist-clarinetist Michael Berardi, he co-led the Sunny Murray/Michael Berardi Acoustical Swing Unit before forming Nature's Spirits. That group included, at various times, Frank Wright, Earl Cross, Juma, Dave Burrell, Allan Silva and other "free music" players from Manhattan. Berardi also made news with a series of concerts at Group 212, the non-profit multi-media workshop-forum for the

SURROUNDED BY BREAKFRONT OF INSTRUMENTS, three members of recently formed musical group were photographed late last summer at Group 212's multi-media workshop. arts between Saugerties and Woodstock, when he served as music coordinator there. The 212 concerts featured Berardi along with Archie Shepp, Noah Howard, Sonny Simmons, Sunny Murray and others. He has also recorded as a sideman for ESP Disc and Columbia records.

Nature's Spirits is a melodic outfit, and every note throbs with feeling. If you're a purist, you'll find yourself snapping your fingers in spite of yourself. So will everyone who joins the pop, rock, and rhythm-and-blues fans at the Academy Theatre tomorrow. (T.G.)

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

If you weren't able to spend St. Patrick's Day in Ireland being at St. Mary's hall last Saturday night was next best thing.

Of course, one expected to hear Marty Kelly's band come alive with Sweet Rosie O'Grady and My Wild Irish Rose. However, it's not likely Marty would "blow his own horn," but when it comes to Irish music he plays second fiddle to none. And the band goes all-the-way; even Max Aduchefsky donned a "Mc" for the occasion.

Oh, there were the Baileys and the Gallaghers, the Howards and the Whitneys, the Stensons and the Gearys.

WGHQ's Sales Manager Tony (O') Bell can thank Ken Geary for saving him from making an Irish faux pas. Imagine Tony wearing a metallic gray cravat on St. Pat's night! After all, wearin' o' the green is synonymous with St. Patrick's Day, Tony. And we don't make the rules, only play the game.

Tony's wife has become a walking advertisement for Weight Watchers which she feels is the greatest thing since popcorn. And, speaking of food, Tony had an "in" with refreshment committee, in general, and Rita Brazee, in particular, smuggling ham sandwiches before anyone else even had a hunger pang. Mischief-maker that he is, we half-suspect it was Tony who threw those overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder.

Jim Gilpatric was getting "silent-treatment" from Joanne who had laryngitis. But she was wasting no time with a busy pad and pen. Afraid by Sunday she was also suffering from bad case of writer's cramp.

Jim Geary and Phil McDonald, accountants, left everybody's income tax problems at their office, drowning surcharges in Irish whiskey.

Stan (Smiler) Tomaseski's table had more than a fair share of ha ha's with trick-martini that spilled at least 50 times without ever losing a drop or the olive.

Must have been luck-of-the-Irish rubbing off on musician-politician Wendell (Speed) Scherer who finally was able to one-step with his wife instead of providing the soul-music for all hands-(and feet) at-large.

The Herb Reuners didn't miss a step or a dance whether it was a hop, a trot or a mod. Paul Jones' made beams vibrate and the cha-chas were the living end.

Siller Beef's secretary Russ Maurer and wife Mary were dancing like newlyweds — who was it that said, "When you're a size 10 the honeymoon goes on forever?"

Saw Goodyear's Don MacDonald; 12th Ward Alderman Pete Mancuso and wife; Rotron's Ron Scheffel; shoe store proprietor Carl Esposito; Adirondack Trailway's John McGarry; and Bill Merrill, legislature assistant to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell.

There were green lights, green balloons, green ties, dresses, bows, and corsages; but then on St. Patrick's Day everybody's Irish. Only one thing confused us. All those Catholics drinking Presbyterians . . .

Mostly About Mid-Hudson Indians

History and Culture of New York State Indians is the title of a credit-free course that will start next month at Dutchess Community College. On seven Tuesday evenings, beginning April 8, Paul L. Weinman, supervisor of museum education at the Museum of the State Education Department in Albany, will conduct the course. Classes will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Weinman will present archeological research, historic records, and ethnological studies in a survey of New York Indian history and culture from 6,000 B.C. to the present. Emphasis will be on Indians of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Topics will include the "archaic" Indians, woodland Indians, Iroquois-Algonkian culture, social and political organizations, and mythology and ceremonialism. There will also be an archeological field trip.

As with all credit-free courses, the program is organized so that the participant may delve into the subject as deeply as he wishes. There will be no final examinations or grades.
